This is the most realistic time that you could ever in in history you can run your own ads like an agency. What used to take 15-20 people in a marketing department to do can be done with one person. Welcome back [music] Steven and Steven from Rich from Anywhere. Can you give me the state of the union when it comes to paid ads as of right now? You can literally type out your business description and Meta will find the targeting for you based off of that. >> And this is what allows one person to be able to basically wipe out a marketing department [music] of 15 people. This is benefiting solopreneurs, small business owners, large business owners as well. I want you guys to start thinking about Meta as your partner, not as something that you need to trick. There's a lot of people that run ads, didn't have a good experience running ads, lost a bunch of money with Facebook ads, and are completely through with it and don't want to have anything to do with it. So now the question becomes >> [music] >> what do I do? What is the next move? When it comes to running ads, your success has to do with how well it's set up from the [music] very beginning. If someone is maybe solo in their business or they just have like an admin or a VA or something, [music] what have you seen like do really well as far as ad spend to profit? >> everybody to really pay close attention [music] to this and this should be so encouraging and so exciting for everybody because >> [music] >> Welcome back Steven and Steven from Rich from Anywhere. Let's go. The last time we sat down I mean it's still cooking, bro. >> Yeah. It's like it was one of the most rich conversations around business and marketing and I'm excited to kind of follow it up and even update it cuz marketing is moving so fast. We got AI and things like that. Um I think just to validate what you guys do for the listener or the watcher put in the chat or in the comments whether you're watching on the live or on the recording of the podcast. What do you do in your business? Throw in the the comments. What do you do? How do you help people? Um because paid ads is going to amplify that. And so, to kind of just back up this conversation, can you give me the state of the union when it comes to paid ads as of right now? We've been doing paid ads since about 2017, I want to say. And back then, when we first started paid ads, we got a lot of pushback from even successful entrepreneurs who were like, "Yo, I don't want anything to do with that. Uh that's not my cup of tea." People were very focused on kind of doing it their way, organic marketing. Not to say organic is bad. Um but, it's so good to see entrepreneurs beginning to embrace ads more and more because if you couple organic with paid, it's an unstoppable force. You know what I'm saying? And and and that's that's one of the biggest things that that I love about ads is that it's not a it's not a either or, it's a both and, you know? Yeah, I mean, dude, I got so many thoughts. Yeah, it's it's an ATM, bro. Yeah, but no, I would say you guys know me. Mhm. Like, you don't have your business isn't a numbers game, or it can't be a numbers game. It it doesn't have to be. But but, if you want your business to be a numbers game, which is predictable, very easy to fix levers, it it is like ads because organic, it's so hard to put your finger on algorithms and even where does people come from and like all that stuff. It's out of your control. Right. And that's why a lot of businesses do this. They have the roller coaster, right? And if you think about like a roller coaster, it ebbs and flows, it has peaks and valleys. Every time you have a every every time you have a valley or a dip in your business, it's just a symptom of lack of traffic. Yeah. That's all that is. So, if we can find out a way to whenever we do have a lack of traffic, if there's a controllable machine that we can fill in that gap, then it fills in the gap and all of a sudden we have consistency. >> Yeah. And so it's it's really just that. >> Yeah, 100%. >> they have a bad idea about paid ads for some reason. They think it's salesy, they think it's that, but I mean, if you have a business that solves problems and change changes people's lives, then you have a you have a like a moral obligation to get it to as many people as is possible. >> 100%. And ads ads do that. They connect the dots. Yeah, I mean, it it also gives so much um like it gives so much peace for a business owner to know what ads do because of what it's doing like you know, we'll get into like what we should run an ad to just so people can make more money online. Uh but sometimes I can get discouraged because I do all this work and I and I feel the work cuz I'm putting out organic content and things like that. And then and then not as many people as I'd like would buy or whatever. And something that we don't realize we're doing is like if you have a business to know that adding goodwill through your form of sales or your process of sell sales is nurturing. Yeah. But I I didn't know my business had predictability until I turned on the ads machine and and it and it it's almost like the mirror of your business that like we're so close to our problem, the problem we solve, and things we're going through. You run paid ads, it just tells you where your business is. You know. That's the key. That's the key. And you know, I think especially for someone like you who's really big with organic, one of the the big issues we hear with people who are very reliant on organic is they're tired of the unpredictability of virality. You know. 100%. They have they have this record month because they had two posts that got a million views this month. And everything is good, but then the next month happens and they can't they can't strike the the the viral gold and their revenue dips. And they're they're back into that same struggle again, you know? And and I think with ads, you're now guaranteed views. Regardless of what anyone says, like there's there's literally no such thing as a guarantee, typically. But with paid ads, it's very different because you put money in, you are guaranteed for people to see your stuff. Now, the question becomes how good is your offer? How good is are the back-end things of your business? Cuz that's >> is on the page? The lead magnet you're giving out, the call to action. Cuz then it it we said it becomes predictable and it becomes a numbers game. Oh, wow, 10,000 people saw this with $100 of ad spend, but I but nobody opted in. Okay, so we got 10,000 people that saw it. What is the landing Does the button work? >> Right. >> Does the things work? >> you can get into analyzing the numbers and figuring out the bottleneck, right? But when you're just doing organic and stuff like that, like a lot of times, there's so many factors that you don't have metrics on and you can't see it. So, and that's what makes it hard to grow a business when you don't like a lot I really believe that most people are not afraid of hard work. They don't They're not afraid of hard work. >> Yeah. If they knew what the problem was, they'd fix it. But most businesses most business owners problem is that they don't know what their problem is. And so that's when it gets frustrating and it's just like people just feel like they just want to quit because it's like it's unpredictable, right? >> Yeah, I mean I mean most people would you say step into business out of accident? You you you did this, somebody was like, "I'll pay you to do it." You're like, "Oh, I've been doing [clears throat] this for so long." You didn't have to run ads. No. And then and then you then you help everybody in your circle, you maxed out your >> it out, yeah. And that's the that's the cool thing. It's like I think most business owners don't get into business thinking about themselves as a marketer. Yeah. But every business owner eventually comes to the realization that I have to become a marketer. Yes. In order to grow this business past this circle that I just tapped out, you know. >> Facebook ads have definitely changed uh in the past year. The big change that happened was um this algorithm update called Andromeda. Have you heard of it? I legit have not. >> Have Have Have you heard of it? Okay, so Andromeda came out I think it was July of last year. Yeah. Something like that. Um it was just a new update to the AI machine learning, right? They Facebook Meta started putting in a lot more machine learning into the algorithm, right? And essentially, y'all can go read blogs on it. Basically, I'll sum it up in in one sentence. It's just the algorithm got way better at matching ads with the right people. Mhm. That's basically what the Andromeda update um It's just more sophisticated. >> more It's way smarter, right? And if you guys watched the other episode that we did, we broke down all the different things that makes why Facebook ads are the most powerful platform. All the data points that it collects. It's listening to your conversations. It's It's scrubbing your Google searches. It's like literally It knows everything about you. It's like Facebook is like the biggest spy on Earth. >> But now what they've they've done even more since the last time we've been on here is they've doubled down on AI, Mhm. right? Uh I don't know if y'all have noticed, but Meta is buying up all these different AI companies. They recently bought Manis. Mhm. Most recently, like a billion-dollar, two-billion-dollar acquisition. And what Meta's doing for everyday business owners is exciting for for everyone that's listening right now because they're making it much easier now to use the platform to the point where even your targeting is different. And And some of y'all might notice this like in your ad accounts. One thing Meta's doing, you You notice this now, bro. Bro, I'm going to be honest with you. I don't look at my ads accounts or whatever. So, you haven't you haven't You said it it's gotten easier. From my point of view, it's always been hard. >> [laughter] >> That's why I pay somebody. But I But then the I know that like why would Facebook make advertising difficult? Cuz they want they want more people on the platform. Yeah, so No, it's it's easy. Meta makes 97% of their revenue from ads. Yeah. Trust me, they they I want you guys to start thinking about Meta as your partner, not as something that you need to trick. Meta is a partner. Like Meta wants you to spend money on ads. >> Wants you to spend money, wants your business to succeed, wants the right people to see your business so that they are satisfied with ads in general. >> Exactly. Like, yeah. And here's the new thing that Meta's doing now. This is like most recent, up-to-date, like as we speak. They're tapping so deep into AI that now, inside of ads, you can literally type out your business description, and Meta will find the targeting for you based off of that. In the past, we would have to list out who >> have to list out who it is, you'd have to do deep research, you might have to look at Google Trends, all these things. Now, you can type out your business, who your target audience is, and Meta will now give you the targeting. In the future, what it's going to look like is you're going to be able to type out your business description, and just like that, Meta is going to be able to target without you having to take out the the interests that you don't like that Meta gave you. >> Dude, I remember literally 2 years ago, I was running ads to a web class, and I I was using a third party or like an agency, and when they read to me who they were marketing, it was all the wrong people. It was like content creators and influencers, and like I was like, "No, real estate people." >> you that? >> Coaches and consultants, [laughter] like online entrepreneurs, you know? So, you're saying I now I could just be like, "This is my business, and uh this is who I help." >> Yep. >> Yeah. And it'll find it. But you just brought up a really good point, bro. Because there's a lot of people that that run ads right now or that are trying to get into the ads game that either A didn't have a good experience running ads, lost a bunch of money with Facebook ads and are completely through with it and don't want to have anything to do with it. Or B, there's people who just initially, straight out the gate, don't want to run ads at all, right? They've had a bad experience with agencies. You know, a lot of these agencies don't necessarily get you the result. So nowadays people are a lot of people that come to us are following falling into those two buckets. Bad ad experience, don't want to have anything to do with ads, or have hired an agency in the past, been burned by an agency. So now the question becomes what do I do? Like what what is the next move? >> Yeah. So one thing that has been very successful for business owners is uh finding an in-house marketer. Someone who can come into your business, already knows the ropes, doesn't have any other clients, right? But is just specifically focused on you. And what we're finding now, bro, is that businesses are beginning to thrive >> Oh, yeah. with in-house marketing teams. >> Dude, you talked about state of the union, like what's happening right now. This is the shift. And I want everybody to really pay close attention to this. And this should be so encouraging so exciting for everybody. Because you guys are going [clears throat] to start being able to get results like an agency, but either by yourself, if you're a solopreneur, this is the most realistic time that you could ever in in history you can run your own ads like an agency. Or you can have one person, what is what we call an AI-powered operator, a marketing operator, who is dedicated full-time to your business. And just run all the stuff. Now, the thing that makes it Dude, this is so powerful. The thing that makes it so good is because we have this one person who's in charge of your marketing, right? But what we do to make it superpowered, we call it like these superhuman marketing teams, is we give them these AI tools to use. And these AI tools are like extensions that this operator is using now. And this is what allows a one person to be able to basically wipe out a marketing department of 15 people. Like what used to take 15, 20 people in a marketing department to do can be done with one person. And so this is benefiting solopreneurs, small business owners, large business owners as well. People that are paying I have a We have a a client. He's a uh a real estate He he owns a realty a real estate brokerage. They have 400 clients. They were paying $50,000 for an agency. 50,000 a month for one agency. Right? >> Shout out to that agency. That's good. >> kicked. Yeah. But but if if they hear this podcast, bro, I'm telling you, and if they they do what we're telling them to do, you can basically wipe that whole agency out and maybe hire somebody for maybe 2,500 to 5K per month and do the same exact job if not better. Hey Department fam, pausing the podcast to talk about this life-changing sponsorship. It's me. I'm sponsoring the podcast and the sponsor of this podcast is the Content to Cash Challenge, which is a five-day live coaching experience I put on for creators, entrepreneurs, coaches, consultants, and service providers. If you feel like you're stuck in business or maybe there's more to business and to revenue, I'm telling you that you don't have an offer problem, you don't have an industry problem, and you probably don't even have a sales problem. What you have is an awareness problem. And this is why I have the Content to Cash Challenge because I believe transformation happens on a two-way street. And how do you know if you're the right person for the Content to Cash Challenge or you're in the right season? You're listening to this podcast. This is for you. This is your moment. So to take the challenge or jump on the waitlist, scan the QR code on the screen or check out the link down in the description below. Let's get back into the conversation. Yeah, I mean and I think even when agencies were at its peak, you always were you always got divided attention, you know, um >> Yeah, exactly. >> is what it is. Like I mean, there's a space in place for consultants and things like that, but I think would you say the reason why this is not only is it great cuz it's cost-effective, but it's custom. Like and you get you get the full attention. Um So, I've heard Alex Hormozi say something along the lines of if you want to do ads right in 2026, you got to you got to be testing like crazy. Tons and tons and tons of content. Which [clears throat] if you're just a part of many clients or, you know, you're just one of many businesses that somebody's working with, you can't move quick. Exactly. >> And and this person's going to get access to person on your team is going to get access to the data as fast as possible and then you can literally shoot an ad right after they get the data. And and I saw Neil do this. You know, he threw a uh a uh a five, six thousand person webinar a couple weeks ago. >> Mhm. And uh he did use an agency. And thankfully this agency's like more boutique-y, but like Neil was literally making ads every day on his phone. Just So, that's also a part of the Andromeda update. One of the big updates was that um Facebook does want more creative, right? More creative. But a lot of people confuse what more means, right? More doesn't necessarily mean more as in volume. We're talking about more as in variety. >> Mhm. Right? So, sure you Back in the day, one thing that we used to do is we'd have, you know, the same video basically and we swap out the hook. So, it's like 10 videos, different hook. That not is not really necessarily the way to do it anymore. What Facebook wants now is complete different variety, right? Complete different messaging angles. Complete different formats, different locations, different things in the in that you're wearing, whatever it is, because every different creative that you use is going to attract a different part of your audience. And this is what I'm seeing a lot happen. A lot of people are they're running ads, but they're they're tending to like have a high frequency. So, it meaning like um Facebook's running out of people that it's not running out of people, but it keeps hitting the same people over and over again because they're using the same exact messaging or the same type of ad. So, what you want to do is think about um think about like if you were running ads to ice cream lovers, right? I'm running ads to all ice cream lovers. But if I run an ad that is talking to chocolate lovers, then I'm going to only hit chocolate lovers. If I run ads and I'm talking about strawberry, I'm going to hit the strawberry. What's your favorite? What's your ice cream, bro? I like vanilla. Very very simple. Come on, bro. >> [laughter] >> Out of all the flavors. So, if you're talking to vanilla people, then it's going to hit the vanilla people. So, what you want to do is you want to make sure that your your angles and your messaging you're talking to the you're you're talking to the same person but from different angles. And when you do that, it starts reaching different segments of your audience. It's good. And you know what the the the really good part about creative diversity now, and this goes back to the ease of use with Facebook ads. Another reason they love creative diversity is because let's just say you create, like he's saying, 10 different pieces of content with different backgrounds. You're wearing different things, right? Let's just say you do that. What Meta's doing now is they are taking certain videos and retargeting people inside of your top of funnel ad. So, essentially, traditionally the way ads worked is you would run an ad called top of funnel. Top of funnel ad is an ad that you run mainly to a colder audience of people that don't know who you are, right?

That would be your top of funnel ad. And and it's it targets people based on who you're trying to hit, right? That's kind of top of funnel. Retargeting used to be where you create a completely new ad and you pull in an email list or or you target people who have already visited your web page and you give Facebook that specific instruction to go out and retarget these people with these creatives. Now what Meta is doing is Meta is saying, "Hey, all those 10 creatives, put them in one campaign, put them in one ad, and what we'll do is we'll use some of your creative for top of funnel cold audience. We'll use other creatives to actually retarget people all in the same campaign." Okay. So again, when we're talking about ease of use with >> Meta is making it easier. Making it easier. That's what they do. >> good. >> Yeah. Yeah, I mean, dude, this last round that we had, um I made ads for people that bought something. Like I Mhm. You know, cuz cuz what I'm learning is that there's so much distraction right now and like you you got to you got to break through. Yes. But I want to back up less technical, more mindset around thinking like a marketer. You you mentioned about CEOs who think of themselves like marketers are people who build thriving businesses. >> Yes. Personally, I found that like there's like marketing side of my brain, which is speaking like pain points, which is like messaging and this and the other. And then there's like the brand putting out organic content that's value-based, you know, teaching, adding value, and all that stuff. Like where do you draw the line? How do you think like a marketer? How do you know you're growing in the skill of marketing? Yeah. Yeah. >> Well, just knowing that you can do both is so is so powerful. Like a lot of people think of ads, they think of sell, sell, sell. You don't always necessarily need to directly sell. The law of reciprocity will take care of that for you. Mhm. When you put out a value-based piece of content that just blows people's mind, people will naturally click on the link to see what's on the other side. Because again, that's just how we're wired, right? People do something for us, we naturally want to do something for them or we want to know more, right? So that is the way of selling without selling. So I think it's kind of like you don't even necessarily need to think of one or the other, like am I marketing or am I branding? It's kind of doing both at the same time. Think about creating ads that really do add value to your audience. So, when they see them, they're like, "Wow." That's marketing and branding at the same time. So, there's no need to even divide, yeah, honestly. And then as far as like being a CEO who thinks like a marketer, cuz I mean, we're seeing it Mhm. front hand, like CEOs have a brand and then and then their ads are so cheap because it's their face on the ads and we already know them and I was just waiting for you to ask me to do something cuz you don't ask it in the in the regular stuff. >> Exactly. >> Like everyone's coming to Vegas to go to Alex's freaking headquarters Mhm. like like it's no one's business, but it's his ads are literally like "If you're doing a million dollars a month in your business, you want to do more, come to Las Vegas. Click the link in this." >> Yeah, so Alex has brand, right? So, his brand helps to sell because, you know, he has that face. >> Yeah. So, naturally, what you'll see for everyone listening, if you have brand and people know your face, you're typically going to get a cheaper cost per result. It's just it's easy like that, but not all of us have brand like that, right? So, thinking from the perspective of a CEO that is marketing and you don't have that brand, one thing you have to consider is how much time are you allocating towards the non-needle-moving activities? You have to You have to do an audit of your business and figure out, okay, what is serving me the most right now, right? Yeah. And a lot of times, when we do this with people, a lot of times, people that are trying to post content every single day, it's such a time suck. And you have to look at your your data and ask yourself, "Is this really serving me at the highest level?" Because if it's not, then maybe cut back on the amount of organic you're posting and take some of that energy that you're using to post organic and use it for video ads instead. You're still using the same amount of hours in your business, but you're you're you're thinking about it more from a perspective of a CEO. What is going to make you the most money right now? And a lot of times, like I said earlier, it's a mix of organic and paid, but with paid, the good thing about paid is it runs 24/7 around the clock. Right. Organic has like a shelf life, if you will, right? Because if you don't go viral, it might cap out at 300, 400 views, and then that's it, right? >> Sure. So, from a CEO's perspective, you want to start thinking about your brand and thinking about where you're allocating the majority of your time. Um in our case, in our in our case, we don't really do a lot of organic like at all. You go to our Instagram and see. Y'all should have cut up the podcast more. I was thinking about it the last one. I was like, "We didn't cut it up enough." I know. We need to. I know. I know. Um but, we don't post a lot of organic just naturally because we're spoiled with ads. >> We're lazy. We're we're we're lazy [laughter] because we got into the game not organically, but from ads. That's how how how we made our money. So, to us >> thing that you need is money to grow your business. And it's like we can borrow money, we can finance, we can get a loan, or you can use money you got, whatever. >> That's what I'm saying. And you can get the money back. Right. >> But, all the time you spend, you never get it back. And that's speaking to the mindset part. Like, that is if again, if you're a CEO who doesn't necessarily like to post every single day, then ads are absolutely critical for you. Because most people's content calendar is post every single day, DM people until your thumbs bleed, >> Yep. and then and then hopefully we get some leads from that. Um but, if you're average content creator, which most people are, it doesn't actually turn into anything. It's just a bunch of headache, honestly. >> Yeah. Um our count our content calendar looks like this. We post We create content one time per week per one time per month. We let those ads run all month long and just get us leads. And then if the data tells us to change it, we'll create new content. >> Yeah. But, often times, those same ads run for months and months and months. >> Yeah. It's good. But, >> But organic is good, but we're not we're not pooping on our name. >> dude, If anybody's got both ends of the spectrum at this point, it's it's your boy. Exactly. >> And I'll be honest in regards to my approach. I I love adding value, and I and I know adding value builds brand, and it makes the sale easier later. Like it it just But so but the difference is, bro, that with ads, though, you can create content because you want to. Yeah. Not because you need to. Sure. If you don't have ads, like you're reliant on that. Right. >> an energy in itself, too. Like when you're creating content from a place of creativity and like this is what I want to do, this is what I want to post, it comes off better. Yeah. >> You know what I'm saying? And so it makes you a better creator. >> I was going to say I I love that the ads can do the selling for me, though. You know, like as someone who just like I just want to add value and and and I love sales, dude. I'm dude, I'm a great salesman, you know, like I we just cooked right now, [clears throat] just a couple [laughter] hours ago. And um but when I when when I'm making videos, like when when I'm filming, whether on my phone, and I'm and I'm selling, >> Yeah. uh I don't know. For me, I just there's there's there's a thing in my mind that's like it's diminishing the brand. So, I think of it like when I when I go into a a season where we're marketing and we're we're putting money in ads, I'm like these nin- these ninjas, proverbial ninjas, are going to go do the selling for me. >> Yeah, but I wouldn't think of selling as as diminishing your brand, though, bro. Thanks. I appreciate that. >> Don't [laughter] think about it like selling. Think about it like inviting. Bang. Because that's exactly what you're doing. >> Yeah. Like I have something over here that's going to change your life. Yeah. >> And I'm inviting a few of y'all to come in. I can't take care take care of everybody. But for those of y'all who want to, I'm making this available. And that's a completely different mindset than >> Sure. Hey, come buy this thing. Yeah. Because like come buy this thing cuz I want your money. Like, no. Like there are more people out there than you could ever serve in a hundred thousand lifetimes >> that need your help. Um and this goes for everybody out here who who maybe um thinks about selling the same way, you know? Don't think about it like selling, think about it like you're serving. And and exactly what sales is. It's sales. >> Yeah. So, okay, if if someone is maybe solo in their business or they just have like an admin or VA or something, yeah. Where would you say like let's just walk through like okay, we're going to identify the audience, make a couple ads, and run them at What What should they run the ad to? Like what have you seen like do really well as far as ad spend to profit? Yeah, so first thing is this, if you do have someone already on your team the playbook is is actually a little bit easier than if you don't have someone on your team, right? So, if you have somebody on your team right now, the first thing you want to do is you want to get them good at the content piece. Because content's going to drive literally every aspect of your business. You have to be creating content. But the thing is, you can't create content that doesn't move the needle, right? We're talking about content creation for ads. So, the first thing you want to do is you want to train your VA up on your style of content so that they can get you scripts that you can then use to read while you're doing your ad. Hey, what's going on? You know what Which by the way, the Edits app from Instagram, you throw the script in there, it it's it's like already like a a little you know, teleprompter or anything. >> Right, right, right, right. So, that's the first step. And [clears throat] you know, last time we were on here, we talked about, you know, the core four elements. The key is content. When it comes to ads, it's offer and then content. So, for your for your VA or your in-house team, first thing you have to do is you have to get that content right. And there's different ways to do it. You can use AI tools to to help you come up with specific scripts, but the thing is I I warn everyone that's listening, don't just go on AI and be like, "Hey, create me a script for this particular business and and see the results." Because it's not going to be the right type of script. Yeah. You want to have a script that is impactful. You want to have a script that leads with pain. You want to have a script that leads with pleasure points. You want to You want to have a script that is more of a pattern interrupt. You want to have those specific things when it comes to your content, right? >> Yeah. So, that's step one. Do you have like just by asking the question like a a great ad that you've done, worked on, did for yourself that like is crushing? >> Yeah, I've been tons of them. Like literally, we have so many clients that are crushing right now. >> Can you say the script kind of like Um some of the ones right now that are working really good are contrarian hooks. Okay. >> Right? Pattern interrupts, things that make you say, "Wait, what?" Right? So, like for instance, we had one that said um something along the lines of the less the less I post, the more money I make. Mhm. All All of a sudden, in your mind, you're like, "Wait, what do you mean the less you're posting, the more you're making?" And then I go off and I bridge that to the reason why that is is because I stopped spending all of my time creating content and I started focusing my energy on running ads, and then that freed up my time to go off and make more money because I'm not spending all my time doing organic content, right? So, contrarian hooks are working really, really good. Um quick point to what he was saying though. When you're When you're actually getting your scripts and like he said, like if you're just using AI general generally, like it's like it's going to create that what we call AI slop, right? It's just like, "What is this? This doesn't sound like you at all." Um you need to train your AI tools in two things. And this is the part of like the AI operator model where we we place this AI operator in and we got all these tools. Each of these tools are trained on two things. The first thing you need to train them on is your business, your business, everything about your business, right? Um your your offer, your ideal client, your tonality, the way that you speak, um everything. Just literally just go in there and record for like 20, 30 minutes and brain dump everything about your business um and train it so that it knows what to say and how to say it. The second thing it needs to be trained on is proven strategies for that thing. Mhm. So, for instance, like if we have an AI tool that's all about Facebook ads, that AI tool needs to be trained on proven strategies that have been working. Because if it's not trained on proven strategies, then it's just going to pull random stuff from the internet that may or may not have worked. And then you're going to go off and run that play and it's not going to work and you're going to blame the AI. It's not the AI's AI's fault, it's your fault, right? So, um that's why it's so powerful. Each AI tool, so let's say you have a Facebook ad tool, it's trained on your business like like an employee that's been there for 15 years, right? And then you have uh information on Facebook ads like like an expert that's been running ads for a decade. And now your operator gets to tap into that tool. But it doesn't just stop there because you need more than just ads. You need content creation. >> [clears throat] >> So, you do the same thing with content the content creation AI tool. That has access to your whole entire business. That has access to the best content creation strategies. It doesn't stop there. You also need email marketing and text marketing strategies. That AI tool is the same thing, right? So, you keep building all of these tools that surround your operator. And bro, it makes it like lit This is why one person can run your entire marketing department. I look at it like kind of like like Iron Man, right? It's like Tony Stark it's Tony Tony Stark. Tony Stark is like the guy, but then he jumps in this suit and all of a sudden he's got all these tools and all these things that he can do. That's that's literally your operator. Yeah. Yeah, it's fire. The number one question I usually get asked by people like you is Omar, how the heck does your videos look and sound so dang crispy?

Well, the reality is it's the equipment I use and you'd be surprised how inexpensive it could actually be. So, I've compiled all my gear and I've updated the list and I want to give it to you. So, if you're listening or watching this, just hit the description box below and I'll send you my gear guide for every budget. Now, let's get back into the conversation. So, imagine like as a business owner now, maybe you don't want to have anything to do with ads whatsoever. But now you have this this person that's either trained up on it or someone that you outsource it to that's completely dedicated now to your business that has access to all these tools. Now you have the power of an ad agency in one person and now life becomes a lot easier because you as a business owner you don't want to sit here and have to focus on coming up with content scripts or ads or or landing page copy or any of that stuff. Now you can focus more on the important things in the business like selling and you know showing up for your clients and doing those things. So that's why it's >> extremely important. It's good. Dude, there was a guy in my group that came to the workshop last week and he does fencing. Like super boring but does fencing. And he's on track to do like $40 million this year. >> Jeez. And I was like, "What's the you know, how much do you spend in ads, you know?" And he's like >> Like what kind of fences are you selling? Yeah, I know, right? [laughter] But you know what I love cuz [clears throat] cuz business doesn't have to be like over thought, over spiritual, like it's simple, right? >> Yeah. He's like, "We install fences. We run ads and it's and our our link or our lead magnet is a free in-person quote." His thing is like, "As soon as we get on the property, it's game over." Yes. And and I want people to think of the their business is that way. Like you should. If you if you have a business that does good work in any It could be a real estate, coach, consultant, fitness, relationship coach, money coach, uh whatever service provider. Like if you got the opportunity to get in somebody's home or on a Zoom call or whatever, would you be able to like close that deal, you know? And I think one of the biggest reasons he said that was because number one, we have all their information if you're going to schedule us to come. You got your address, we have your phone number and all that stuff. And then secondly, um he said we offer financing. So like if they don't even have the money, like you don't have you don't need to have the money, you know? But I know that's like deeper in the thing. We're we're walking through like we're going to make the ads. But I just I bring that up because do you want to make $40 million in your business? Okay, well, like he's literally that's it. That's all he's doing to run he's running an ad to a in-person consultation. That's his next step. [clears throat] >> Mhm. What are some other next steps that people should consider? I know we simple man. Yeah. See, I mean, that's what I'm saying, bro. Like it's not anything complicated. It's just doing the basics at a really really high level consistently. So yeah, sure you can do we work with a ton of service-based businesses. And by the way, local businesses, I love running ads for local businesses, bro, because it's just it's high relevancy. Yeah. And relevancy increases conversion rate every time. So if I say, "Hey, do you want to learn how to run Facebook ads?" you're going to be like, "Okay, yeah." But if I say, "Hey, are you a business owner in Las Vegas that wants to learn running like auto automatically without changing anything else, it's just way more relevancy. >> relevancy. It levels you up compared to [clears throat] the competition, cuz you know, a lot of times, especially with service-based businesses that are local, there's not many people that are running ads. And if they are, they're not running ads the right way, right? So if you if you learn this strategy and you just keep the business very simple and follow the the four elements, the offer, right? For for your fencing guy, his offer is free consultation. It's a freebie, but it gets them in the door and you know, once you get someone in the door, if you're if you're good at what you do, >> you can close them in, right? >> Okay. I just I think what I want people to know that that your offer isn't just a money exchange thing, a lead magnet offer or a lead generation offer. 1,000%. >> Because I think we should be good at spinning, especially if you're an online business person, we should be spinning off all kinds of lead magnet offers. Yes. Yes. Yes. But keep going. Yeah, so so think about your business and and think about what you can give away for free. Now, the key with freebies is it has to be something that's extremely valuable in order for it to make sense. Cuz if you're not doing something extremely valuable, people are going to look at your business in a diminished sense, right? >> They're going to look at you like, oh, he ain't giving no value. Like, this was whack. I downloaded it and it didn't do anything. Like And let me bring up an example like that. Uh like an ebook. You know, some people will try to give away a free reading experience. Like, now, I know I'm I love reading. I read every day. But like, don't sell me something for free that's going to take more of my time. >> Right. There you go, brother. >> so instead of a free reading experience, you could take that ebook and make it a more of a visual experience cuz people are visual learners. >> Yeah, yeah. You could make it a course, a video course instead. >> Or a checklist. Don't have me read it, just tell me what to do. >> Exactly. Exactly. Something very simple. But I I think I love the principle of like this fencing company because what's the cost for this guy to have someone go to somebody's house without a deal even done yet? Like are you willing to do these Like and this is it's a form of adding value. Like, are you able to add value first? Are you willing to add value first? So that people can feel that and the law of reciprocity will take care of itself. >> Yes. Um but no, I I think that's just so good to consider. You you should you should you could if it if you could be charging for something can you give it away for free? Exactly. >> Webinars, [clears throat] another way. Like, I think so many people are sleeping on virtual events. I really think virtual events could work for pretty much any business, man. >> I believe I believe that. If there's a way that we can sit down and and figure out how to frame it, I think anyone can use virtual events. And it's not like I think a lot of people have the wrong idea about webinars. They hear the word and they're like, ooh, webinar. >> Sounds like seminars now. Exactly. It's like Seminars don't sound good, yeah. >> still do that? Like, isn't that that thing that scammy people do to steal your money, right? And it has this like kind of bad tonality or or like Yeah, conversation. connotation. Um but it's nothing new, right? The whole idea of a webinar, you can call it whatever you want. Call it a master class, a workshop, a live training. Call it whatever you want. >> introductory event. There you go. All it is is getting a group of your ideal clients in one place, giving them a bunch of value at the same time, and then inviting them to work with you. That's all that it is. And that has been happening since the beginning of time, right? Jesus did that. >> Yeah. Right? Jesus got people together and sold them on God, right? He had the best offer ever. >> Ever, bro. Right? Um Julius Caesar did it, right? Building the Roman Empire. Steve Jobs did it, selling Apple. He got a bunch of people in >> it every year. Yeah, or the Apple does it every year. Every every year show them all this really cool stuff, get them to see tech in a new way, and then invite them to buy something, right? >> Yeah. So so that is something that can work for any business. You just need A lot of times you just need someone to come in and help you figure out how to make it work for you, Yeah. >> Dude, and what's cool about and we can go into depth if if you guys want. I know there's a live audience on right now, which we'll get into questions, by the way. >> you all want to be So cool. 170 at the time of filming this. >> Come on. Um but what's so cool about having this web class, master class, intro introductory event, whatever you want to call it, is it's a repeatable asset. Uh and why does it work? Cuz I used to think you had to do a new presentation or come up with something new. But that was because I didn't think I didn't I didn't have an abundant mindset at the time. Yeah. The world's big, bro. Yes. >> Like there's a lot of people that need to hear what you have to you know, help them with. >> Do like does the Rolling Stones when they go on tour >> Exactly. >> do a new show, new set every single city? >> Right. Like of course not. That would be idiotic, right? >> Right. No, they do the same they figure out a a show, a set that works every single time, new audience. That's it. Same presentation, new audience. And that's going back to paid ads. Paid ads are an incredible way to fill your webinars, fill your free workshop. >> Actually, can we can you just break down that systematically? Cuz I got a lot of people in my program [clears throat] even they they they got their web class now. They got their master class. >> It's ready. It's ready. They got their slideshow. >> We just need some people. We just need people. >> [laughter] >> Yeah, what what are you going to have them do? I know you talked about like making [clears throat] but like if they are by themselves >> Full structure. Yeah. That's how far as how it goes. So, first thing you're going to do >> Getting people on the web class, yeah. Yeah, yeah, yeah. So, first thing is ads. You you you want to get some quality ads up. So, that's the first thing you need to do is acquire that skill set or get some help to acquire that skill set, right? That's the first step. So, you're going to go ads, right? Have your content like we talked about contrarian, pain point, pleasure point, one of those three. Create your content. Get people to a destination or landing page, okay? Now, this destination or landing page it has to be built on human psychology. You have to know your target audience's biggest pain points. You have to know their deepest desires because if you don't, what's going to happen is you're going to drive traffic to the page and your opt-in rate is going to suffer. Mhm. Right? So, you want to keep your opt-in rate around 20% or so. That's pretty good. So, you want to keep your opt-in rate around there. So, inside of your landing page, you want to make sure there's a couple things. You want to make sure there's testimonials. You want to make sure that you that you speak to your audience in a way that's going to captivate them. Uh you want to make sure you have a compelling headline. There's a few different things you want, right? >> have Do you feel like having a video on that page is helpful or you don't need a video on that page? >> It's definitely a test, but a lot of times we don't even have a video. >> Okay. Um we'll just have an [clears throat] image of the person, Yeah. right? Really really the headline is the biggest thing. If I had to tell everybody like spend 80% on one thing is the headline. Yeah. Because if they don't resonate with the headline, they're not going to read the rest of the page, right? That's the classic above the fold back when they created newspapers. Everything on top of the newspaper had to be on point or they're not opening the rest of it, right? >> Yeah. Your landing page is the same way. They're not going to scroll. So, the biggest thing and going back to the video or the ad, shoot use videos. Especially for web classes, for master classes, webinars, videos tend to work way better most of the time. And again, the biggest part of that is going to have a key you need a killer script, right? We have so and we don't rely on just doing this. We we have a GPT that we've created. And basically we took all the like we basically just took all the best scripts that have been working for us and our clients and we uploaded them into this custom GPT. And then we just say, I need an ad for this. And it spits us out three scripts. One is based off of pain, the pain angle. One's based off of desire, the the desire angle, and one is contrary, and one is pattern interrupt. >> And by the way, [clears throat] the things that he's saying, this is what we do. Like whenever you see an ad from us, it's not just off the top of the dome. We script our ads, too. So this is >> laughing cuz like I stick going off the dome. Yeah, so this is something that we do. >> It's frustrating. Yeah, and you can like when you get really good >> stop, stop. I shouldn't though. Yes, I [laughter] can. Just cuz we can doesn't mean we should. >> Save time. Save time. Yeah. And we were rappers, so we could freestyle and do all [laughter] that but we still script though, you know? At least loosely script, right? Have something that you're like, all right, this is basically what I'm going to say. I'm going to go off script a little bit, but that's essentially what I'm going to do. So that's that's the really big part that you need to >> is good though cuz like I know you know, it it takes work to create the web class and or the master class. Um but once you once you get this thing going, it's literally insane. >> once you what we can do too if your audience wants it, man, we can actually hook them up Yeah. with the GPT. And if y'all if y'all want it, Is that free? >> we'll just yeah, we'll just throw it for them for free. Well, what what what's in it for you? >> So, we'll get your name and email. Okay. >> we'll This is a lead magnet. >> Well, this is a lead magnet. But you could totally charge for this. Totally. >> 100%. But if you're listening or watching this, whether you're on the live or the post-production, like what what's the chat saying right now, Art? Do y'all even want something like that? Does that even sound like cool? >> [laughter] >> Okay, this this is a perfect example though. I just I mean it's like this is very meta. So So by the way, we literally we literally just created that idea right now. So what we'll do is we'll create a automation. So um go to Instagram. So this is going to have to be later on, right? We'll put those links in the description. We'll put links in the description, but go to Instagram and message us the word um let's just do department, d e p t. Great. Message us d e p t. We'll send it over to you. So the landing page is so good I mean cuz you can have a fire web but then people are dropping off because your landing page is using the wrong words. >> Exactly. Great. And then okay, so then now we get people to opt in. Yep. So now that they've opted in one thing that we do on our confirmation page and this is just to get more bang for your buck. Um you can get people to subscribe to your YouTube. If you have a YouTube channel on the confirmation page, hey subscribe to our YouTube. And we get tons of subscribers to our YouTube channel just off of that. >> But any

But But anything that's valuable to you, right? Like a YouTube subscriber is valuable to us. But think about that confirmation page as very valuable real estate. >> Yeah. Right? If it's Instagram, Tik Tok, whatever it is. Or if it's something completely different. Um you can even often times a lot of times people do upsells, too. So you can run ads to a free master class and then instead of taking them to a confirmation page take them to a small low ticket offer. Seven bucks, 17 bucks, 27 bucks. Um and and if that's a good offer then that will offset your ad cost. Which then is what we call a self-liquidating funnel. Oh, yeah. Which allows you to basically break break even on your ads. So you're building your list for free. >> Before the webinar even starts. >> Before it even starts. >> Crazy. It is such a cheat code and at that point there becomes no difference between spending a dollar and a thousand dollars or ten thousand dollars because it's all the same. Right. >> Yep. So good. Yeah. The math just starts mathing. >> And mathing. Yeah. So something I've been doing is um something I've been doing is upon signing up for my master class uh I'm giving you uh like it's like a it's just a series of videos that are there are podcasts, but they're just consolidated in a way they like the bit they're like the A1. Um but I think the most valuable thing I give away as a result of giving me your information is just access to my free community. Yes. >> And and that's grown by 5,000 people. So I have a I have a community on school now with over 5,000 people. And I know that I can just turn on a I at some point I can turn on a $47, $37, something at a call on the calendar, whatever whatever that may be, which is so cool because and it's just I I just I never saw that though going in that like offering something like that and there is no work on my end that the community itself is they're posting videos, they're having fun. >> Self-sustaining. So it's it's extremely valuable that community, right? >> Yeah. Yeah, super super valuable. And that's the key, right? It's just giving them something valuable that that makes sense for them to give you their name, phone number, and email. Yeah, like when people that are on our list and in our community, we do webinars all the time. Yeah. [clears throat] And these webinars yeah, we'll offer stuff at the end, but sometimes we won't. And sometimes we do, but either way you you show up to any one of our webinars, you're going to have an unlock. And that one unlock can take you to another level in your business. It doesn't take a lot of big shifts a lot of times for you to make a lot more money. It's just that one little little tweak. You know what I'm saying? Yeah. >> Um and I I like to quote like, you know, what's the good what's the difference between a good carpenter and a bad carpenter? About an inch. Uh-huh. Right? >> [laughter] >> So like literally you got like this one guy who hung the door like 1 inch to the left too much and all of a sudden everything's falling apart, right? And it's the same thing with business owners. Like the difference between a failing business and a scaling business is about an inch. So good. Yeah, dude, it's so good. With with this web class can you can you share some like good numbers or like numbers people should be looking for as far as I get I put in this much in ad spend, I got this much to see the page, I got this much people to Right. >> opt in, show up, stay on, like Yeah, for sure. So, I mean the the one the first metric that a lot of people pay attention to the most is cost per lead, cost per webinar registration. That's the one that most people are fixated on. And it is important, but it's going to it's going to change depending on what you're doing. Yeah. And what you're offering and who you're going after, right? So, um if you're offering a um a if you're going after let's just say beginners, right? A lot of time a beginner in whatever it is that you're doing, you're going to have a lower cost per lead because there are way more beginners in this world than there are elite people. Yeah. If you're going after a higher level person what in whatever arena that you're in, you can expect a little bit higher of a cost per lead. And when I say that, I mean $15, $20. You can expect a higher cost per lead, but that doesn't mean that that's a bad thing, right? Because what you're also doing is you're training the algorithm, you're training that Facebook pixel to go after the right people and not the wrong people. And you know, a lot of times when we we talk to business owners, they might be paying $15, $20 a lead and they're mad at that, but I'm asking well what are you selling in the back end? Well, I'm selling this $5,000 thing. I'm like, dude, Yeah. you know what I mean? Like You're a little cheapo. Yeah. What are we [laughter] talking about? >> Yeah. And that's the key though is sometimes people get mistaken with cost per lead because if you're creating content, but you're saying the wrong things in the content, you might attract the wrong

audience that is cheaper, right? but then when you go and get on the webinar, you don't convert and you wonder why. It's because cost per lead isn't the end all be all. That's not something that you should be overly concerned about. >> Yeah. Not all leads are created equal though. >> Exactly. Exactly. So, you want to make sure that your messaging is on point in order to get that cost per lead. Like for us, our cost per lead is between 10 and $15. >> Sometimes it's lower than that. Sometimes we're in the $7 or $8 range, but our goal to put a goal on it for us, it's less than $10. Yeah. Right? That's a really good cost per lead benchmark Really good. for you guys to be at. Now, we've had clients come and work with us, very first [clears throat] ad they've ever ran, and get $2 cost per lead. >> Yeah. Just because the things were set up so good. >> Yeah, yeah. With the right audience, too. >> With the right audience, too. So, like, just know that when it comes to running ads, your success is not really it's not going to have really anything to do with time. It has to do with how well it's set up from the very beginning because >> um I learned this very early on, that Facebook does not reward effort. It rewards being right. Right? And if you're right, you will get events you will get immediate results. If you are wrong, you will never get results. Facebook will just cuz Facebook's not going to send you a little letter in the mail and say, "Hey, by the way, you should probably change No, they're just going to keep charging you." >> Yeah. You know what I mean? No, and I love I love that you bring that up because I mean, I even say this even in content. I'd rather have less views with the right people than a ton of views with the wrong people. I I would rather you do your presentation in front of 13 of the right people than 30 of the wrong people. And like, yeah, our you feel good that this many people are on the call, but then, when it comes to the end of it, then you now you're in your emotional and your feels. And I'm feeling that this week, by the way. So, like, I was I mean, I was telling you guys it it was I'm breaking through a little like you know, every time I keep increasing ad spend, every time we run the play, and um I I like I felt like this was the most we've ever spent for the least amount of people that have showed up. But, dude, the outcome is higher. Mhm. There you go. >> Which is telling me that like the quality of person in the room is more sophisticated. They're they're more the right person. And um >> That's the mindset. And so, it's and it's breaking my brain, you know? When you're running ads, you I I always tell people don't make uh presumptions too early, right? Don't like it ain't over until the fat sings. That's what I like like So like because if you if you make assumptions too early on, you're going to be like, "Ah, man, this ain't working. There's not enough people on here." And that's going to kill your energy. And it's going to kill your performance. And that And that lack of energy is what's actually killing your conversions. >> Yeah. But if you understand that this is a process, dude, like and you never know cuz buyers are not always the ones hooting and hollering. A lot of times the buyers are the ones that are silent in the back not saying anything. Yep. We have people on our list for a year that literally never even raised their hand at all and then come and buy a $27,000 program out of nowhere. >> it's like don't let all those things get in the way of your energy. You're planting Understand the process. So going back to your your original question now, so cost per lead $10 or less. When you're running ads, boom, you're going to an opt-in page. Now, if you're doing a free masterclass, like he said before, you want to keep that opt-in rate at 20% or higher. Right? If it's 20% or low lower, then something needs to get shifted on the the page, the probably the headline, probably the way that you're framing the masterclass itself needs to change, right? >> Um it's usually not colors or anything like that. Don't worry about aesthetics. That usually doesn't move the needle. Um now you got people opting in. When you start getting people opting in, now you got to make sure that you have systems on the back end sending them reminders. So then there's a whole set of benchmarks. And I again, we can go as deep as you want to. Yeah. I mean Now, we don't have I mean, what you're saying is if someone opts in, you, business owner, should have something set up where they are texted, they are emailed >> constant like confirmed, reply you got this, add this to your calendar. >> Yeah, mandatory. Yeah. Text and email though. Because a lot of entrepreneurs are so fixated on just emails, email marketing alone. >> But you got to think about it. Most people in this world, probably you included, as soon as you get a text message, you're going to look and at least see who it was. Whether you reply or not, it's on you, but you're at least going to see who it was. So, text marketing is extremely important when it comes to like the webinar automation sequence. Don't just rely on emails cuz I would venture to say about 80% of the people that attend your webinar come from text. >> Yeah, that's good. >> just wanted to put that out there. >> Dude, I mean, here's a little sneak attack. I've been sending a voicemail. So, like 5 like 10 minutes before 5 minutes before, I say, "Hey, I made a mistake. I didn't open up the room high enough. And so, you got to get on the call early That's good. and let me know that you came on the call or came on the or joined the class because of the this call. Like literally, throw it in the chat. I'm here cuz the call. Dude, it's cool. Like That's a voice drop, right? So, that's automated as well. >> Yeah, they open it up. Yeah, it's just a voice drop thing and then they say like, "I'm here cuz the call. I'm here cuz the call." You know? Love it. Love it. Love it. >> and I think this is what the this is the principle of true of you know, scale the unscalable, find the things that are breaking like pattern interrupt in in the way you do something. It could be refreshing. Yes. Um if you ask for people's Instagram uh at the time of opting in, dude, you can have somebody send a voice memo and say, "Hey, I saw you sign up for the master class." Um yeah, you know, here's why you want to be on early. Or you can have automation do that. >> can have automation do that. >> Yeah. Uh which is is just cool. I think most people think I don't sending up automations is a lot or tough. I'll just Can I prescribe something? Dude, loom.com or luma.com. >> Loom. Is it Luma? >> Oh, luma.com. Okay. Dude, you could put in you need GHL, you don't need ClickFunnels, you don't need no nothing. luma.com. Get the your Zoom link, put it in this, and it does all the automations. Really? Like literally, and they have pre-made automations already. And then you can add what you want. This is for people who are just like, I need to just get going. >> Yeah. Um when I run even like the live podcast, I'll like create a Luma event, and like it's just the text reminders and the email reminders. Now, I can't get too creative more than just that, right? But I think most people who just want to get started That's the game, bro. >> it's it's it's really uh easy. >> can, man. Like We definitely recommend having, you know, a CRM and having all that stuff, but again, if you're just getting started, dude, action. Yeah. >> Action is the thing that is important for right now. >> All right, so we got people to sign up. You said 20% that show up on that landing page. >> Yep. Cool, we're getting 20% opt-ins. And then And then what From the 20, let's say we got 1,000 people that see the page. Mhm. 200 people signed up. Is that Is that 20%? And then Yeah, and then how much people do we want to see on the call? >> typically from our um experience, around 20% of those people to show up. Great. Okay. Right? So, hopefully more, right? Sometimes we see 30, 40, depending Again, how good your sequence is. And again, if we want to dive a little bit deeper into that, it's how How much curiosity are you evoking? Right? Cuz curiosity is the biggest thing that makes people join a webinar. If they can kind of sniff out what you're going to talk about, they're not going to show up cuz they they feel like they already know it. So, make it uh a lot of curiosity being evoked in the email and text reminders. Um but yeah, you can expect pretty much 20%. So, now at this point, you have um 1,000 people hit the page. 200 people opted in. Uh 40 people on the webinar live. Great. >> Now, at this point, this is when it starts to get uh more custom, more wild wild west because at this point, the conversion rates depend on what you're doing. Yes. You know, like a lot. So, a lot of people Some people will do um book a call at the end. If you're doing Again, we're doing a webinar and we're doing a book a call close, we're probably getting 50 to 60% of those people to book a call. Because we're really good and we've been doing it for years. [clears throat] Um Um I'd say if you're getting started, you probably want to aim for that 20% mark or so. And I would even say it's the same thing if you're selling something low ticket, maybe like um 97 bucks, 297 297. Like you're still looking for around that 20 to again If we're if we're selling a $97 offer, we're probably going to close around I'd say 30% or so. 30%. Yeah, that's accurate. Yeah. Um but we've had we've had webinars where we sell $5,000 things. And again, the conversion rate is much lower. Like we did a webinar um What was it like two or three weeks ago? We had about a hundred a hundred five people on and we sold a 5K offer to five people. In 60 minutes. Yeah. But if you think about that, if you would have done a 97, you probably still wouldn't have hit $25,000. So it it's it's really dependent too on the type of audience that's there, right? They have to They have to know They have to know you. They have to trust you. And those are things that you can build during the webinar presentation as well. Even if they are a cold audience. If you hit on certain points and and you know, the the goal with a webinar overall is to identify your target audiences' biggest false beliefs, if you will. Yes. And replace that false belief with the belief that they can do the thing with your help, right? And if you can do that effectively a lot of times, regardless of budget, you will get sales or regardless of the price point of your offer, you will still get >> Yeah. get solid sales. >> Yeah. Yeah, and I found that if if you have helped somebody already, if you already have like the testimonial like what you need to do is find that thing that the person you helped with was in their way. So like So let's just say I'm a real estate agent and I just helped this young family buy a home, you know, a month ago. What is the thing that they told you they thought wouldn't keep them and they probably said, "We didn't think our savings was big enough." But did you help them get a home? Yeah. Okay, well then they are the point. Hey, uh you know, that What's the limiting belief that you need a large savings to get into a a new home? The one big domino. The one big domino. And then you put a picture of that family and then you just tell them, "Hey, I just helped this family and you know, they thought this and they were telling me like there's no way we're going to be able to buy and look, they're homeowners today. And here's what they did." Right. And you know what a another cheat code for webinars is? Um if you're someone who has some experience and you do have testimonials, get a couple of those people to show up on the live webinar and and vouch for you. Cuz cuz nothing hits better than someone else telling you how dope we are, right? Or how dope I am, right? It it nothing hits better than that because now I'm not just telling you, it's somebody else So good. >> telling you, you know? So that's one thing that can amplify the game. Proof over promise. Yeah. And you don't need a lot of experience to like make something like this happen really really quickly. Um we have a student named Vivian who literally had nothing set up. >> Like he's doing it right now. I'm I'm doing it right now. That's the case study, testimonial. Um Vivian came to us literally with nothing. No software, no funnel, no She didn't really even know what a webinar was, literally. Um and she signed up for our VIP program. This is where we build everything out for them. Yep. We built out her webinar outline, her funnel, told her exactly what to say, created the ad script, told her how to shoot it, the whole thing and she just did what we told her to do. Very first ad, $2 leads, bang. And now she's getting 200 to 300 webinar registrations every week. All literally her life now looks like she just shows up, she does it every Monday Monday morning. She shows up and there's like between 50 and 70 people live on a webinar and she just does the presentation that we laid out for her and she and she's selling challenge tickets and you know for $297. And she's already on the challenge, she's already sold three 3K deals on her challenge. But you know what makes that so easy? You know what makes that so easy for her is because she has an in-house marketer, right? She's a high-level business owner. She She does law and she she's high-level with it, right? So, she doesn't have time to do all of those intricate things. Webinar building, automations, ads, like she doesn't have a lot of time. But because now she has an in-house marketer on her team, they're handling all that all that minutia, all that back-end stuff for her. So, all >> She literally has to do is show up. >> Yeah, and we went and found the operator for her, too. So, that's another service that we can provide. We went out uh sent out applications, interviewed the people, trained them, placed them in the business, and then while they're in the business, we're like kind of looking over their shoulder, training them as they're as they're going. And then eventually, when we're not there yet, but eventually, probably within the next month or two, we'll let the training wheels off completely, and she'll just be she'll be golden. Yeah. So good. I uh what something we just completely ran through is that 40 people showed up to the the hypothetical web class, which means there's 160 people still on your email list. >> Yes. Boom. Yes. >> And yes, they only showed up but do the web class again. Promote it again. What are you doing for the people that just didn't show up? >> another here's another hack that we used to run. Um the 160 people who didn't show up, they get moved from one workflow into a new workflow. And that new workflow is a "We're doing it again" workflow. So, now the same the next week, remember, we're we're still driving new people in. Yep. >> But now the people who didn't show up last time get a "Hey, we're doing it again." So, we got 160 people, and now you can pretty much bank on 20% of those people showing up, too. Right? So, that's what, 30 something?

Um so, that 30 something plus the 20% of here, now what that does is it makes your overall Good. >> show rate probably more like 40 to 50%. >> Yeah, yeah. Automated. And when again, that's why automation is so powerful, bro, cuz you set it up one time and it's just done. >> Yeah. Yeah. And it's consistency, [clears throat] too, right? Th- This is that play that you just gave. That's for people that are running webinars weekly. >> Every week. >> So, honestly, that's what people should be doing is is doing consistent webinars. Cuz when you do it, it's the compounding effect. That email list is going to continue to grow. You're going to get more people on your list. And then, eventually, what's going to happen is there's going to be some people on your list that are completely quiet. >> Yeah. >> Haven't said a word. And literally, I know you said it we've had people on our list that have been on there for a year. We've had people on our list for 2 years that have randomly booked a call and bought one of our higher ticket 50K packages, too, right? >> What are you doing? Yeah, how how does your like marketing emails look like your weekly marketing email? >> Good question. So, this is again where automation gets really good. We have a 6-month email sequence that we've built out. >> Wow. And inside of the email sequence, what we're doing is we're giving a bunch of value. We direct people to our YouTube channel. So, we're giving a bunch of value. We have a bunch of value emails. And then, we'll also have testimonial emails in there. >> That's good. >> And the good thing is on our YouTube videos, there's always >> [laughter] >> No, I was just looking at Art cuz like, number one, I told him to stop sending out the email newsletter to the YouTube video drops. Why? >> No, do that. Do that. >> Okay. Do it. Sorry. And then, secondly, >> why? No, and then how why? >> Yeah. I just felt like it wasn't valuable enough. >> What? >> Cuz I'm telling you to like leave your email inbox and go hop on a YouTube >> do it. >> just give you value in your inbox. So, in my mind, I'm like, I'd rather just send great copy Mhm. that gives you something to think about. And then and then at the bottom, I mean, yeah, maybe you can just be like, "Hey, we went into depth here Yeah. on the podcast." But I used to have like >> for instance, when you blast this video to somebody, like, all people need is one little gem from this, and they're change their life. >> Yeah, no facts. And then they're looking at you as the the man. [laughter] >> You're the messenger, bro. Like, you're the messenger. But then I also look at Art because the testimonial thing, like, we're wanting to clip up testimonials from coach calls all the time and just upload it to like a video department Instagram. >> Yeah. And just constantly fill it up and so you can literally binge testimonials. >> do it. >> Um but I never we I never even thought to like just say here's what Hattie did when she made her 30k day. >> Yes, just boom boom boom boom boom. >> of the biggest questions that your customers have in their mind is like can you help me? >> Yeah, will this work for me? >> Okay, will this work for me specifically? >> Yeah, yeah, so good. The only the best way to prove that is by showing how well you've done it, not just like yeah, I can do it. Look all these people that did it. >> So it's 6 months, right? >> 6 months, 6 months week >> Email nurture sequence. >> And you want to get these emails too by the way cuz they're they're crazy valuable. >> Exactly. >> You know? So it's 6 months every week for 6 months we hit them with a new video cuz we have enough content now on our YouTube's where we can do that, you know, interviews of of people that we've helped. So essentially you want value, value, testimonial, maybe a call to action, right? Value, value, testimonial, call to action. And over time what's happening, you don't necessarily see this working, but it's working in in the background. There's people clicking and opening those emails and getting value and they're like oh my gosh like I know it's going to be the right time soon. And then eventually there's a topic that hits them and they're like you know what? I've had enough. This is a tsunami of just value. Let me go ahead and click and and book a call and >> Yeah. But that's why the consistency is so important because you don't know what that topic is. >> Yeah. You don't know what that thing that's going to push them over the ledge is. That's why they call it the messy middle. It's like you got the top and then there's the messy middle. It's messy. People are like going around, they're coming back to stuff, they're binging, they're >> Life is life-ing. Life is life-ing and then that one email you said that one thing and they're like that was it. Yeah. >> Right? So just stay consistent. >> Yeah, I mean I I always like to say that sales will always work for you if you if you have the abundant mindset that nuance happens. Like >> Mhm. >> we can't control nuance, >> No. but we can control what that we're showing up for when nuance happens. Like, you don't know that this person is having uh an a career change, or this person's like, "You know what? I'm going to pivot. I'm taking my business online." Like And that And that's what's like so small-minded as business owners to think that we can actually perfectly identify when a person's ready to actually buy from us. That's just one kind of person, you know? There's There's so many kinds. That's so good. Um dude, that's that that's fire. Can What are some other lead magnets? We talked about like, you know, the in-home consultation for service providers is obviously great. Uh but [clears throat] creating a masterclass where you're killing limiting beliefs, and then you're inviting them into the next step after that. >> by the way. That's like that's the number one, because it's doing so many things at once. Right? It's a high-leverage activity. It's knocking out multiple birds with one stone. Like, you're you're building your list. You're um getting time FaceTime with people, right? And that's really, really important for sales, right? Dude, I think Zoom builds trust deeper than YouTube. Oh, 100% yeah. >> Cuz it's live. It's not like I'm watching you from afar, pre-recorded. I'm here with you. >> Yeah. Living, breathing together. That's where connection happens. And so, immersion creates conversion. The more immersed they become, the more they're going to likely they are going to buy. So, it's building leads. It's building connection. Often times, you a lot A lot of times what we do in our Zooms, too, is we might have one call to action to buy something, but we'll have other calls to actions, too. Hey, who's following us on YouTube, right? And we'll drop our YouTube link in there. Dang it, dude. That's so smart. Get YouTube like, if you got 500 people on the Zoom, you don't like don't just assume that all those people are subscribed to you. Like, drop the link in, and then boom. >> [snorts] >> Cuz even if you didn't get the sale, at least get something. The goal with these webinars, honestly, is to get something out of it. Even if they don't buy, get them to follow you. >> the other thing, before I forget, you're getting a ton of great feedback. Oh, yeah. You're getting so much great feedback. And if you tell people that you're looking for feedback, they'll give it to you, too. Say, "Hey, look, this masterclass was free. I'm not asking for anything. I want you guys to give me feedback. When I say something that hits you, drop a fire emoji in the chat." And then little things like that. And then later on, you or your team can go back and look at the transcriptions and see what lines were hitting people. And now again, now you're pulling messages from that and those can become ads. >> Yep. You see, there's so many things happening at the same time. So, that's why I feel like um masterclasses are the best. And the last reason why is because it's scalable. Right? It doesn't take any more energy for you to talk to one person or a thousand people. Boom. >> It's the same thing. >> many. Yeah, bro. 100%. Fire. >> Um but you can do a lot of other things, too, like um We do a lot of giveaways. >> Like custom GPTs are really good, like the one we're giving your audience. Really, really valuable. Right? Like that GPT is so valuable because again, I'm I'm baking in these proven things. And now you all you have to do is basically in this GPT um specifically, you go in and it's going to act like an interviewer. And it's going to ask you questions, and you just talk to it. So, dictate and just talk through all the things. And then when it has everything it needs >> guy Whose voice is it? Um What do you mean? >> It's It's just AI Oh, is it? >> asking Yeah, yeah, yeah. Yeah, yeah. Here's just like gem for you guys. If it was one of your guys's voice, it would turn it would increase the immersive experience cuz they're hearing your voice. And they're responding. And so it's it's a way to scale it's a way to infinitely scale personalization. Interesting. Okay. You Do you guys have one? Yeah. >> You have one yet? What's the what's >> Is that the app? It's not an app I mean, it's not an app, but it's it's the It's the service. This Yeah, the software, Delphi.ai. >> It literally sounds like I'm on a podcast or I'm on a phone call with you. But it's a it's it's a high immersive you know, uh what is it? They They're My you know, Rich Men Din, he teaches three levels of consumption. There's intermittent which is like short form, there's immersive which is like long form, and then there's intimate which is a dinner, a meal, a zoom call. >> Yeah. Or in this case like AI with your voice personalized back and forth. >> Oh yeah. I mean that's interesting. And he's actually ascending he's ascending it converts 50%. It it's a 297 to the AI so shout out to you guys for giving it for free. It was 297 and then it sends into a 5K offer. Kind of crazy. But anyway all that to say That's so powerful man. And I just want you guys to think about how many different ways that you guys people listening right now can do that right? Business owners are business owners because they got good at a thing. Most of the time right? And all that wisdom is sitting in your brain and it's collecting dust. It's not doing anything in there. You have to extract it out and it's so valuable when you are able to take that let's just say you were doing something for five years. You know how valuable it is to take five years of experience and bake it into a tool that someone can skip five years of headache. Legit. >> It's so valuable and I think people a lot of times under they undercut their own value. They discount their own depth. And don't discount your depth. You have a lot of knowledge inside of your brain that can help people but you first have to realize and become aware of it and then package it up use it and you're you're helping people you're building your business everyone wins. It's so good. Dude fire. I'd love to get in some Q&A. We got some time for Q&A. What's camera? This one? Is this one of the things So many cameras. where will they hop on and ask it or do you want to just tell us? No yeah they can ask. Oh dude turn you flip it around and then you can look at this to for the sake of the podcast. >> Okay cool. Or or we can just talk and it's fine. >> Cool. Yeah. Either way. Probably here first. From Inner Circle? Dude, let's go. Javier. What's going on gentlemen? A lot of value. So, it's been it's been awesome. I'm still building out my signature presentation, but I know that there's like lead magnets that you want to give away for free. Do you recommend selling smaller ticket things and if so, when would when would that be enough to run ads to because obviously I'm I'm not sure if you should run ads to like a $10 thing or a $40 thing. Maybe that's even a wrong question, but when do you think it starts making sense to like run ads to a certain dollar amount of a product you're selling? I mean, I think it's okay for you to start doing it now, honestly. Um [clears throat] because everything in marketing is a test, bro. Um and you'll never know if something's going to work unless you run the play, you know? Like right now, you could be on the fence thinking like, should I do this? Should I but the best way to just do it just just do it and then let the data tell you if it worked or not. You know what I mean? You could run ads to that $10 thing and it could crush. Like what if it crushed [snorts] tomorrow? Um and then you were thinking about maybe not doing it for 6 months, right? Just get off the fence and do it in my opinion because it That's another cool thing about ads is like you can you control the throttle, right? You can run an ad and if it didn't work, well, you can just turn it off. Yeah. It's not like a like a billboard that you put on the side of the road that's up there for 6 months. Yeah. You know what I mean? So, that's what I would say. >> No, that's good. But then also I think about you just run ads to the free thing and then just have the little low ticket thing as an upcharge. >> As an upcharge, yeah. And that's what I was going to say too is Javier, one thing you could do too is you could have some sort of a freebie, some sort of a giveaway, kind of like a GPT or something like that depending on what you do. Um but you always want to think about this, right? Nothing is really free. So, although you're giving away that thing for free, you're now collecting leads which can turn into massive amounts of currency, right? So, now let's just say you've been running this play and you've collected 400, 500 leads. You have a very low cost per lead. Now, when your master class is done, guess what you can do? You can send out a text blast and an email blast and let everyone, all those free leads that you got, let them all know, "Hey, I'm doing a master class." And invite them. And actually, one of the things that that we recommend is when you're doing your first master class, if you have a list, start with the low-hanging fruit first and promote that master class to your existing list. So, that's another play that you can run. Run the free lead magnet, give it about a month, collect all those leads, and then blast that list with a master class, get them on, and then you can start closing them that way, too. So, that's another another way you can do it. All right. Is there certain like budget that you would recommend having set aside to even like test to know like, "Hey, this is working." Or like, "The it's a wrong hook. It's a wrong like" Obviously, there's a There's a lot of factors there, but Yeah, for sure. How How much have you spent in ads so far, like, roughly, would you say? Uh none right now. So, this this would be my first >> Okay, cool. I would I would probably start lower, man. Probably like 15 bucks a day, 20 bucks a day tops. And then run those ads. You'll know if that if that campaign's going to work within two or three days. Yeah. So, I would in your mind set aside around 50, 60 bucks for you to know if this campaign's going to work or not. >> it's got to be a thousand, bro? No. No. >>

[laughter] >> 60 bucks, bro. Don't buy the horses. Just run an ad. >> [laughter] >> How many pieces of content do you recommend with that Andromeda setup? Like, if I was going to put $15, how many pieces of of different ads I would say I would say three minimum. Okay. >> I would say three minimum. At 15 bucks a day, do three pieces of content minimum. You don't really need more much more than that. Three to five pieces. Like you don't need to really go crazy. If they're structured the right way and the and the scripts are well worked and you use the tool that we give you guys like good chance good chance one of them one of them three or four are going to hit. You know what I >> so good. Dude. Great questions Javier. Definitely bro. >> Dude, I have a question. I totally forgot to ask it. >> Yeah. Okay, here's my predicament and I would like to know your guys' prescription. Okay. The what when we run the ads to the masterclass the first week the cost per lead is so low because of warm audience. The show up rate is so high cuz of warm audience and the conversion rate is so high cuz of warm audience. >> Mhm. And then and then you know ad fatigue sets in and then it becomes you know colder traffic which is totally fine too. I don't know something tells me why don't I just do one masterclass the week before the challenge and just throw instead of spreading it out over the course of three weeks. >> find do you find that cuz you do three masterclasses and then the challenge? Yes. So are you saying that the first week every month it's the same story? Every time we run the play yeah about every other month or so yeah. Got you. The first week is really cost low cost per lead and then second third week it starts to drop off. Yeah. That's what's happening. >> And I'm spending more in ads for smaller numbers and then I know that I know it's not all apples to apples. But that's a good question. Okay, so it's like I'm going to spend $100,000 anyway. Yeah. Yeah, I I just you could test it. I don't Are you are you stopping the campaigns and relaunching them or are you just letting them run continuously? We're just letting them run continuously. >> Try try relaunching. That's what I would say. Because a lot of times when you stop an ad and you relaunch it it resets. And every time out every time an ad resets, Facebook is trained to go after low-hanging fruit again. Okay. So, what you could do is run the ad for the week, stop it, relaunch it for the next week, Okay. stop it, same thing. Yeah, cuz I wouldn't do I wouldn't do because your webinars are converting so high, I wouldn't do one webinar leading to the challenge. I would I would continue to do them weekly because if you start running ads 3 weeks before an event, typically what you'll find is you'll get the biggest bang for your buck cost per lead wise about a week before. So, the way that you're doing it now where you're doing a week out to the webinar, boom, webinar. Week out to the webinar, boom, webinar. I think that's a good strategy, but like like he said, that's one thing that you can do to kind of re to kind of wake up that that ad. >> that your third webinar converts higher than your first and second? Dude, it's been kind of all the same, honestly. Yeah, they're we're about 20% all the way through. 20% good. It just It's just more flashy because like the first web class, dude, there's a ton of people on it and it's lit in the chat. Are you retargeting? Uh yeah, for sure. >> retargeting? Uh but yeah, I think this last one we did like 7K the first week and got like 2,000 uh opt-ins. And then, you know, on the call it was probably about 700 people. And then, [snorts] um the following week we're like 20 25K and then it was just like half that number. Everything's half the number. And then, the following week was about the same. I would definitely test what I just told you. Yeah, I'll see if that helps out. Yeah. All right, next question. Thank you, guys. Of course, bro. Question, um if you're running your ads to a webinar, say you're not having it run kind of like piggybacking off of Omar's a little bit, do you want to run ads into a webinar that you haven't started yet just to kind of build opt-ins for your leads as far as your um email list? Saying that you had a crushing ad that was doing well and it can kind of feed towards the webinar you're doing next week, and then maybe you're doing one in the future, but it's crushing so you don't want to close or end it. Does that question make sense? I don't know if I Do you understand? I don't understand. No, he's saying he doesn't have a webinar on the calendar yet, but like should he still be running ads to just collect emails? >> Oh. I think that that I would say just just have a lead magnet. >> would have a lead magnet. Create a lead magnet and and run ads to that lead magnet. Uh cuz essentially if you're running ads and if you're running ads to a masterclass that hasn't been created yet and you don't know when you're going to create it, uh it would make more sense to have a lead magnet of some sort so that they can get some value as soon as they opt in as opposed to just registering for something and then just kind of sitting there, you know what I'm saying? So, you know, what I would say is create a solid lead magnet and run ads to that and just continue to build your list that way. But I mean that is a strategy that some people do where they run ads to something that hasn't been created yet just to validate it. Because one of the worst feelings in the world is to create a whole webinar around something that doesn't don't people don't even want to hear about, right? So, what they'll [clears throat] do is they'll run ads to an opt-in page and when they opt in, you basically just say, "Hey, the webinar is I'm I'm basically I'm completing it right now. I'm I'm putting the final touches on it and I'll let you know when it's when it's ready." So, that's a way for you to run ads to something and validate an offer and you can check the cost per lead. And again, if your cost per lead is under 10 bucks or, you know, whatever you feel comfortable spending, um then you have a validated offer and then you stop the ads, go create the masterclass, and then and then relaunch it for real. Does that make sense? That would make sense. What do you think about though the law of diminishing interest? Like >> Yeah, that's what I was going to say is people sign up and then forget about it. Yes, but like I guess the the the mindset around this would be I'm just validating that this masterclass will even convert at all, right? That's That's more of the mindset around that particular strategy. I'd It's definitely not a long-term thing that I would suggest that you do for weeks and weeks and weeks. Again, you're in our inner circle, bro, so you know you know the the metrics at this point. Run the ads. Um you'll know within two or three days if that thing is going to hit or not. And then you have a validated masterclass. Cool, turn it off, go build it, and now at least you're building something that you know is going to going to actually convert, you know? So. >> Yeah, I get you. That's kind of like trickling them into like a community. That way they're in a community getting plugged in that way. For sure. For sure. You're giving them value when they opt in, and that's really the main thing. If you're going to test it that way, make sure they're getting some sort of nurturing or value so that they don't forget about it. So, yeah. Combination of the two. Cool. Good question, bro. I've been working on trying to get something set up since then. That was like November last year. >> Bro. I know. So, I I you guys were helping me out, but I I think I just needed to un- untangle the web here. So, if I'm here What I did was I went out and I went to his studio and I created like little four mini professionally like done 15-20 minute course cuz I was like, "Oh, I'm going to do like a mini course to have my low ticket um product and then get people in and have them sign up for a three-day event and then get them into the full year of coaching." So, but so far all I've done is create the the content and I haven't actually launched anything. And my wife the other day she's like, "How long are you going to work on this? Why don't you just go do something?" Shout out to the wife. >> Yo, shout out to wifey. Wifey's be keeping it real. >> Dude, I mean Like [clears throat] I know you're going to ask your question. I'm just going to start by saying more than a mini course, more than a do-it-yourself you like what we're talking about, a masterclass is the vehicle. So, that's what I'm hearing you guys saying. How do you define a masterclass? Maybe that's a good my first question. Yeah. Well, it's how do how does how do other people also define it? We have Russell Brunson who would call it a perfect webinar. We have Daniel Priestley who would call it an introductory event. We have people who would call it call it a signature presentation. Supremacy. Yeah, you know, that's words. But they all do the same thing. They all give people why you're why they should care to listen to you. How this is going to help their life and they would feel by the end of this empowered to go to the next step with you because you made it seem possible in their mind cuz that's the only place people feel it's not possible. Yeah. And so 1,000. You know, people should say thank you at the end of a signature presentation. Like my life's better be that I came on here than if I would have gone to lunch or like took another phone call. Like I'm better because of this. That's what it's supposed to do. Yeah, the timing of it it depends like your strategy just to So for for us a lot of times we'll do master classes that are 60 minutes like an hour. And then, you know, we'll offer something and then we might stay on for another hour just doing Q&A. Right? >> that sitting in the sale. >> in that sale because >> Even though it's not I mean sitting in and serve. Sit and serve. >> Sit and serve because there's there's different types of buyers. Some people buy immediately.

Some people they got questions. And I'm skeptical and I'm waiting for you to say the right thing. Or maybe I literally have to go and get my wallet or whatever the case might be. Don't just ever, by the way, never ever let me catch any of you guys doing a webinar pitch and then just close it and leave. >> I would say that's the biggest mistake that that I see newbies with master classes make is that's what they'll do. They'll pitch. They'll they'll take Q&A. Then they'll be like, "Okay, well, I guess no one else has questions. I'm out of here. And there's literally like 200 people just looking at you. >> Yeah. You you have to sit in the sale. You have you have to What we like to do is we like to handle frequently asked questions. So here's a tip for you guys. If y'all are doing a webinar play even if the audience doesn't have questions prepare a list of frequently asked questions that you can you can read and answer. Because what that does is that starts to to get questions popping up in your audience's head. And also, when you have these frequently asked questions, make it questions that someone that's really considering buying from you would ask. Yeah. >> Because if you do that, now all of a sudden you're answering those questions before they even can type it in the chat. >> 100. >> going to lead to more sales. And we'll do that literally for an extra >> I'm going to give you some more game on that. I So, when I do the web class, We need like a We need like a donation bucket, right? We need [laughter] like a QR code. Yeah. No, so when I'm going through the FAQs, each question the QR code's on screen on each slide. So, uh the QR code's on each slide so that it's like, "Hey, what's the difference between this and any other course? Let me tell you the difference. Uh "What if I'm a beginner?" Perfect. Yeah. If you're a beginner, this is for you. Uh "Will this cover this?" And by the way, I've gotten a You get all this FAQ data a lot of times from just doing it and asking people questions. Over time you realize everyone QR code, is that the QR code to the offer? Yeah. Mhm. That's smart, bro. Yeah. So, so because what I found was like, I'll go into slides after the present after I've dropped the offer and like it's only about the link in the chat. So, now every slide after the offer is dropped has the QR code. So, if it stays up, whether I'm going through testimonials or I'm I'm I'm I'm like, "Hey, here's this bonus. Here's this bonus." Um And the only way that you can know what questions to put up is by being obsessed about your customers in the first place. >> Right. Understanding, being in their mind more than they're in their mind. >> Yep. You know? And it And when you do something for as long as we've been doing it, >> Yeah. you already know what everyone's thinking, right? And so, it literally th- this part of the webinar becomes like a mind reading session. They're like literally like, "You're in my brain." >> Yeah, there's so much content on We just dropped at the time of filming this, we dropped a podcast with Jason Fladlien. And um and it's super helpful and there's other stuff on here. Uh I would say once you are made aware of a vehicle, go take other people's vehicles and watch it from the perspective of uh research and development. And and here's why I love how Brian Miller, he's a communication coach, he would say great communicators are like me magicians. They are showing something, but they know what's happening while they're showing it. People don't know what's happening. The cool thing is if you know what a web class is and you know you follow somebody who does them and who does them well and is successful, you can literally stand behind them while they're doing the trick. Like oh he's about to do this. Like Yeah, or not know or like oh I didn't notice there was the slight of hand. They they they they had this slide and so I mean Yeah. Yeah, but you got to be trained on it. You got to be trained on it. You got to be trained on it or you're you miss everything. Go ahead, yeah. Go ahead, bro. So with that being said because I'm here I I signed up for one of Jason Flayland's like master webinar class. Oh sweet. What you guys are saying is like a webinar is the same as a master class. It's essentially the same thing. And I can use Zoom. I don't have to have a webinar per se. Absolutely. Use Zoom. Don't use anything else. Okay. Keep [laughter] Keep it easy in the beginning, man. There's There's a lot of tricks and bells and whistles you can add later. Dude, I have a friend who and I I told him to not do this anymore, but he was running his web class on YouTube. Not unlisted, but you can only access the link through the thing, but my problem with that is behavior on platform. No one's in a buying behavior or mindset when you open up the YouTube app. >> There's way too many distractions. >> There's There's distractions you can click off. You're just I mean you just know that that interface is not a place where you're bought in like, you know, Yes, because like on Zoom like you registered you're in there and it's like an app. And like you try to leave it like literally said do you want to leave? >> [laughter] >> So yeah, use Zoom, bro. Don't use webinar fuel or fire or whatever that stuff. This just [laughter] makes it more Two follow-up questions to that then. Um one, you mentioned three to five pieces of content. What exactly do you mean by that? Three to five ad creatives. Creatives like videos like Are you someone who [clears throat] blankety blank? Or what if I told you blankety blank? Or yeah. And that's for That's for running the ads then. Yes, sir. Yes. Okay, and as far as running the ads, I tried it once before and it I I don't know how to do it. So, is that Is that something you guys do to help set up the ads? >> do. Yeah, so what I would say, bro, if you want to learn ads, if I'm being real with you, a couple ways to do it. You can go to our YouTube. We got a lot of free stuff on YouTube. Or you can go to risfromanywhere.com. We have some resources for you as well. But that's what I would recommend. Honestly, honestly, like if we did like another masterclass, I'd be down to like come up on the whiteboard and like do some more technical stuff, but we don't have time for that today, but yeah. No, but I I think something I love about you guys is like zero-based. You guys are You guys teach it better than probably desire to do it. And and I and I think there's something to say about that there's a different just cuz you're good at doing something doesn't mean you're good at teaching something. And I found that where I love having you guys on is because you have a way of articulating it cuz you cuz you're focused on teaching it, not focused on doing it. >> Right, right. That's why I I mean, becoming a coach makes you a better student and becoming a student makes you a better coach. >> Right. Like when [clears throat] when The reason why we explain it cuz like I have students literally like need to They don't want to They People who join our inner circle, they don't necessarily want to learn all this techy stuff. They just want to grow their business. So, our job is to simplify What's all the stuff that we literally don't even need to talk about? What are the most most important needle-moving factors that will actually get them leads and make them sales? And let's only talk about those things. >> Cool. And that's why people come in, they run ads, they get leads, and they're like, "Oh my god, this works." Like >> Yeah. even though I've been running ads for 5 years and nothing worked before, and then I changed my strategy, and now they're they're working immediately. >> Yeah. That's how it goes. But like, anyone listening, you guys have to educate yourself. You can't go to YouTube. YouTube is only going to give you, you know how it goes, man. >> It doesn't know your context. >> Yeah, exactly. It's like because when you're running your business right now, like JR, like you're running your business right now, you're in the wild wild west right now. Right? So you can't go to YouTube and say, "Hey, why isn't my webinar working?" Like no one's making videos for you, right? You need specific advice from someone who's looking at your specific thing. And that's what makes the difference. Yeah. >> Yeah. You got this, bro. You obviously got the desire to want to help people to freaking book out of like a studio, film that stuff before that But >> you guys, man. Like this is actually big. This this is kind of unlocked some stuff. And also big shout out to Art, the man behind the camera. I just want to say hi to him, dude. Art. Yes, sir. Love you. All right, see you guys. This is why the cost of ignorance is more expensive and the cost of inaction is more expensive than anything else. Yeah. The cost of The cost of action is called operating cost. Yeah. >> It's literally an operating cost. It's a part of your business growth. But the cost of inaction is opportunity cost. Mhm. It's >> So good. >> all the opportunities that you didn't get because you didn't run the play. Yeah. Always opportunity costs are way higher than operators costs. 100% all the time. And what I like to say is too much thinking leads to your ship sinking. Because a lot of times entrepreneurs got all these Yeah, bars, right? Like they got all these different things that they want to do, Yeah. and they're so distracted with it. And because of that, they're they're overthinking, and overthinking causes inaction. You know what I'm saying? So it's it's really good. I think coaching is a cheat code because if you can just lock arms with somebody and just focus there, you can take massive action very quickly. And that's what all of us in this room do. We We're action takers, you know. And I just if you're still listening or watching this, you should and could be paid to find out. Like What do you mean by that? J. Robb is is doing things in hopes to be paid. Mhm. As opposed to And this is sometimes you just need to hear it. You have the permission to to build it in public. Don't to to sell it before it's ready. To start the wait list and then start enrolling and let them know this is about to start. Like my brother, by the way, my brother who started his first preaching cohort, preaching. Not not not TED Talks, not he he put out a couple stories and said, "I'm I'm going to be doing a Zoom call. If you're a young communicator in the church, would love for you to show up." He got 200 people to sign up. Uh because he's never done this before, 100 people showed up. He just taught. He didn't have a perfect webinar framework. He didn't have limit crushing limit. He just taught. And he said he didn't have an offer. And at the end of the at the call he said, "So, I'm putting together something, but I'm only going to let you know if you fill out the application. And I have this application where where you at, where you want to where you trying to get to." And so, if you can fill out the application, so 50 people fill out the application. Bro just picks up the phone. And I was just where with him. He is not a sales guy. He's a pastor. I love it. Uh not to Pastors actually sell, by the [clears throat] way. They They sell on stage and they sell the gospel. >> to keep that church upright. You know what No, but he was he was just going through, "Hey, yeah, so I'm going to be putting together this cohort. It's $2,000 and would love to have you in it. I only have spots for 20 people and I have 50 calls to make." And like some people are like, "Yeah, let me ask my pastor or let me let me get permission." And I told them I was like, "Here Here's what you got to do for this." Dude, fast forward, long story short, my brother made over $30,000 running a play that he didn't have the full picture of. He didn't have a website, he didn't have a He used Luma.com, got a Zoom link, even the Stripe. Here's why you need to take action. Cuz when he sent the Stripe link, when people said, "Down, send me the Stripe link." It was like uh in test mode, not live mode. I like [laughter] The reason why you need to take action is to find out that Stripe has a live mode. You know, like You can't know until you do that. >> Yeah, so I I just think [clears throat] I say I share that story and not because my brother's like represents anyone that you know, like is incapable or something, but it really it's you can be paid to find out. Take action, man. Be an action taker. >> first thing I was going to say when he asked this question. Yeah. >> thing I was going to say was you shouldn't have recorded it already. >> 100. Like you should have just charged people or at least had people on while you recorded it. >> recorded it live. And then and then just take the recordings and then sell that. >> Yeah. Um definitely a better way to do it, but it's all good. I mean, bro, at least you're moving. >> No, literally. Yeah, you did something. Now it's time to to finish it. Finish the piece of the pie and get it popping. How How many people are still on? Um we got 120 on. Jeez. Retention. I know. But you know what this is doing? What? >> This is bulletproofing the video. Mhm. It's because they're asking things that I didn't consider. >> that concept. >> And and if, you know, uh a lot of people try to optimize for average view duration in post by jump cuts, switching angles, B-roll, text. But you can optimize for viewer duration by making the best video like uploading the best most extent, you know, extensive video on something because it literally covers everything. But I can't do that if I'm I'm the only person trying to extract the information. >> Right. Uh with you guys, it's another layer. With them, it's a completely different strategy. Yeah, because the best is subjective. The best depends on what the viewer thinks. And most people are driving watching YouTube videos or listening to YouTube videos or at the gym listening to the podcast and they are having those questions or objections or whatever. And then to stay on a conversation and arrive to it, there's dude, the what happens in the freaking spirit is like, "Oh my gosh, that's crazy. How do they know?" Well, I didn't know sometimes. I don't know all the time even though I'm pretty good I would say curiosity-wise. Yep. But these guys have So let's do a little bit more rapid-fire, guys. So just, you know, un- unmute, go my question is and we'll hit four more questions. Yo, can you hear me? There you go. My bad, bro. I said I actually met you in the elevator at David Shands podcast conference. You did a heck of a job. That that was dope. Appreciate [clears throat] that. I'll be there again this year. Yeah, that's what's up, bro. Yeah, man. So, my question is I need to know what my next step is, man, like far as like emailing like the systems like I heard you talking about getting a manager and all of this stuff, but I'm like, bro, where do you go to get something like that when you're not able to pay somebody $2,500 or $5,000 a month, you know what I mean? Like Then So, the first thing you do is you do it yourself, right? If you can't afford to hire someone right now, then that's okay. Then you learn how to do it yourself. And like we were saying earlier in this episode, it is more realistic than ever for you to do this yourself, bro. Because we now have technology that was not around 2 3 years ago. Like literally me saying this, this was not this was not possible 2 3 years ago. Or let's just say 5 years ago. Um but because we have AI tools and all this kind of stuff, um you can do it yourself and now you're going to save yourself again if you're hiring someone for 3 grand a month, that's what is that? $36,000 a year that you're saving and that $36,000 now just goes back into ads. That's so powerful. You know, when you do it that way, the only thing that I would recommend investing in is coaching, learning how to set it up the right way from the beginning. If you skip that step, I'm telling you, I know it sounds and feels like the cheaper route to do it that way, but it's always the more expensive route because you go off and you buy software that you there's never going to work in the first place like Mailchimp. Yeah. [laughter] Yeah, by the way. Um, you're going to do things and create videos and do stuff that was never going to work in the first place. Um, and it would have been way better to just hire some It's kind of like Have you guys ever bought like a really cheap pair of shoes from Walmart, right? And then like a couple of weeks later like your toe blows out on the side and then you got to go buy another cheap pair and then like >> It's more expensive to stay cheap, go cheap than it is to buy right. >> Yep. >> From the beginning. >> Yeah, same with tech. Same thing with tech. >> People man, I don't know if I I I what's the lower Dude, you you won't have to upgrade. Like if if you just get the right thing. Here here's what I I'll I'll say to this. I think it's really good to put yourself in the process of becoming a CEO who thinks like a marketer so that when you hire somebody, you get to start from level whatever as opposed to level zero. And being in the dark around an employee or if someone on your team not even knowing what they're doing or how they're doing it is is kind of a I don't know. You want to know how your business runs and you almost want to be able to lead. And and so you're operating blindfolded. It's It's I equate it to um someone that doesn't know anything about cars that has a perfectly good running car, goes to a mechanic and the mechanic says they need a new transmission when there's nothing wrong with the car. But because you don't know anything about cars, you listen to the mechanic and you just pay them whatever they're asking for. Now you wasted a bunch of money. That's equivalent to you outsourcing your marketing to an agency or something like that, but you don't know marketing. There's been so many times where an agency will say that they're doing something, but because the client doesn't know what it is that they're doing, there's no way for them to go in the ad account and see what it is they're doing and make sure that it's right. So, ultimately, it it bulletproofs your hiring process. Yeah. And then there's also VAs, like we're talking. I know I I got a I got a hooked [clears throat] up with like a Lebanese VA company that they're like college educated. Dude, it's literally two grand, 20 They're amazing. >> and they're full-time and they're good. And they're smart. So, you know, But all that to say, richfromanywhere.com, like tap into their stuff, real talk. >> We have all that stuff, you know. >> and also [clears throat] like that luma.com play, I'm just saying. >> I'm going to look that up. You just said you you you didn't do the follow-up game. It literally will just do it at a at a bare minimum level, but it's better than nothing, right? Um so, yeah, all that to say, good stuff, bro. Like you got this. Let me say that you did not fail. You did it for the data. There's no other way to find out. So, I just want to encourage you like >> Also, real quick question, how many [clears throat] followers do you have on Instagram? Like 67,000. 67,000. Okay, so here's the thing and this is a this is a hack for all of you guys, too. >> [clears throat] >> I don't know if if you guys know what the Facebook pixel is, but the Facebook pixel is a piece of code that allows you to retarget people and to do a really bunch of really cool stuff, right? Um but a lot of people don't have their pixel on their website, so they're not collecting any data, they're no they don't have anything. But a lot of people don't know that the Facebook pixel is natively integrated on your Instagram account from the day it started. Damn. >> So, right now, you have 67,000 followers, all those people have been liking, commenting, messaging you, all that kind of stuff. That pixel has been there the entire time collecting all that data. And that data is like literal gold that you guys can take and you can leverage and get results so fast. I'm telling you everybody on here should be should be doing this thing. Like, it's so funny cuz everybody's like, um "Where's the data at? Like, where can I find all this data?" And they're literally it's they're sitting on it. Like, they're literally sitting on it. And so, you just need and this is why we get people results so fast. We just come in and we say, "Okay, here's where the data is. Here's how to use it. Now go use it." And then, boom, they shoot off like a lightning bolt and they're like, "Why wasn't I doing this before?" So, anyway, if you have all that data, bro, you definitely just need need to get educated on how to use it. And once you do, again, you can't unlearn this stuff. Once you learn it, it's it's you got it forever. They can't take that from you, you know? And marketing is never mar- marketing will never not be important for your business. You don't have to worry about that being like, "Well, I need this in a year?" You will always need it. You If you don't have marketing, you don't have a business. And I would even say it's like the Bible says, Jesus said, "If you're faithful with the little, I'll make you ruler over much." And I've learned that when you're faithful with the little, you'll be ruler over much longer than you had to be faithful with the little. So, so once you help people, this is why if you stay in your industry and you and you get all the data from even serving and coaching and consulting and um showing up, that that will eventually start marketing itself. Fulfillment is a form of marketing because people [clears throat] will start talking about you and what you can help them do. And then that becomes But to get to that point, we got to market today. And then and then you're still marketing throughout the process. It's all marketing. I have to market my inner circle to show up to cut to come to Vegas to a thing they pay for. Hey, are we are we sending text messages? Are we reminding them? Are we selling Are we saying five spots left? Y'all Y'all need to sign [laughter] up. Like, you already paid for this and I have to market to you. So, uh it never goes away and I I think it that's why it's so good to think like a marketer and invest in yourself if that's the skill uh that you want you need to grow in in this season. >> 100%. >> Omar, you said one thing I just wanted to straight to the point ask is virtual assistant, will they handle like the email segmentation and all that stuff? >> All the things, bro. They will handle whatever you want them to handle. That's the part. >> Better than you could ever handle it. >> [laughter] >> Yeah. And and if you Did you catch the early part where I was talking about the AI operator model? >> I don't know if you were here for that. The operating manager The Iron Man suit. The Iron Man suit. Yeah. I heard that whole thing right there. >> really think about that for a second because you're now you this one VA that you're paying 1,500 bucks a month or 2 grand a month. Now, you give them the custom tools that make sense for your business. And those custom tools are trained on your business and those skill sets. Now, this operator is like superhuman. So, your one operator can realistically handle everything that you >> Every aspect of the marketing. >> Everything, bro. >> Yep. So good. >> This wasn't This wasn't possible 5 years ago, bro. >> Yeah. >> But it is now. It's fire. Um for such a time as this. Next question. Yeah. Next question. My question is and then a question word. I found You know what I learned that I isn't a question word. >> Mhm. Hey guys, how are you doing? My name is Ali. I'm calling from London, UK. I hope you can understand my accent. Yep. Absolutely. All the way from I don't even I don't just understand, bro. I enjoy it. That's a cool accent, bro. >> I overstand. Yeah. Oh, no problem. No problem. Omar Mana, I love your content. I first heard you in the Callum Johnson show. I thought that interview was brilliant. Really, really good. And I just cannot thank you enough for that. The amount of content that you gave was phenomenal. And let me just go over straight to the straight to the questions. I've got a bunch of questions here. You can just answer them really like within a within 30 seconds or a minute. Um you mentioned a bunch of different types of ads, retargeting versus and vertical ads. And I want to know what the split is, What you do is it's a 70/30 split on on on the top of ads. So So typically what we'll do is we'll launch the initial we call it top of funnel ad where we're targeting a cold audience. And what we'll do there, let's just say we have a $100 a day budget there just as an example. $100 budget for those ads top of funnel. For retargeting, you can typically get away with $10 a day to start with. As you begin to increase your budget though, you have to understand how retargeting works. As you begin to increase your budget, that initial ad that you've run is now interacting with more people. So picture it like your ad is interacting with more people and then they're getting put into this bucket of interactors. So as you continue to increase that budget, more and more people come into that bucket, which means that if you keep your retargeting ad spend at $10 a day, it's not going to be able to be as effective with that large amount of people. So as you continue to scale your top of funnel ad, you have to also scale your retargeting ad so it becomes more effective because if not, what's going to happen is your reach for your retargeting is going to be limited. Okay? So you always want to have that that kind of um ratio. If you're doing $100 a day, do $10 a day retargeting and and kind of take it from there as you continue to scale. >> and that strategy will change for different people depending on their their strategy as well. But there's a there's a metric called frequency that will let you know um if you need to increase that budget or if you need to decrease your retargeting, right? Cuz it like literally there's That's what's so cool about ads is like there's metrics for everything, yep, right? Like it'll there'll be a metric that will tell you, "Hey, um this audience this retargeting audience is too small and Facebook is basically showing the same ad to the same people over and over and over again." So when you know how to read that language, you know what Meta is telling you, you can say, "Oh, okay. Well, I have two choices. I can either decrease my retargeting budget so I'm not annoying people, or I can just go ahead and increase my top-of-funnel budget to bring more people into the retargeting audience." Does that make sense? Yes, makes sense. And you control >> a lot of like Do you [clears throat] do a lot of likeable ads or like, you know, when if a person has a certain amount of emails, you you use those kind of um uh set tell the system, "This is the crop of email list I have. Get profiles of these type of people and um target those." Do you do that a lot? Yeah, sure. Absol- Absolutely, man. You should definitely try it. I think um you know, it really depends again. There's I mean, you're going to hear me say this a lot, but it it really does depend on a lot of things, but typically, if we have a client who has a really, really great database of of high-quality customers, um then yes, you can upload that list into Facebook and then create a lookalike audience from that list, and then tell and then essentially, for the people who don't know what a lookalike is, you're eventually you're eventually essentially taking that list, putting it into Facebook, and you're saying, "Hey, Facebook, you see all these people right here? Go out and find millions of other people who are just like these people, but different people." And Facebook's like, "Okay, cool. Well, I have all the data on everybody, so I can do that very, very effectively." And and it works a lot of times really, really good. So, yes, we are still using lookalikes, but because of Andromeda, because of the Advantage Plus and all the stuff that's happening with AI, machine learning, it doesn't necessarily mean that lookalikes will outperform broad targeting. Sometimes, broad targeting is outperforming lookalikes. It just depends, you know. >> It's not as effective any- It's still effective, don't get me wrong. Um but we'll do split tests where we're we're split testing Advantage Plus against a 1% lookalike audience for interest, and Advantage Plus wins. Sometimes. It's just again, it it it depends, and it also it really comes down to your ability to be able to read that language. Read that [clears throat] data that's coming back into Facebook. That is the most critical part of this whole thing, right? The setup and all that stuff is really not that important. The important part is when those numbers come in, can you understand what the language is telling you? If you can, now you're in control. And you can and you can do what you need to do. If you don't understand that language, You'll spend $5,000 in ads like we did when we first started and got zero sales. Zero sales. >> And you'll be one of those people that said, "Facebook ads doesn't work." And it's like, "Bro, it works. You're just not working it." My next question, you mentioned one placement, five creatives. I would just want the combination headline versus image ads. I mean, so do you test headlines as well as images? Or different images with the same headline? How does it work? What's the formula behind that? You said headline headlines versus image ads. So, what we do typically, like if we have five creatives for instance, more of those creatives will be video creatives. So, we'll probably split test three videos against two pictures, right? Um because what we find is that video content tends to just perform perform better. Now, the thing with video is I like video too cuz you can get to the results a lot quicker. You're you're going to know when you create a video ad if it bombs bombs pretty pretty quickly. Compared to a picture, it takes a little bit more time for you to accumulate that data because Meta favors videos because again, Meta is a platform that is focused on the user experience. And what are most users doing on Facebook? They're consuming video content. >> Yeah, and the other reason why is like, you know, they say a picture is worth a thousand words, well, a video is worth a thousand images. So, the video will give you way more context about a thing in a way shorter period of time. So, that's why video typically will perform better than image. And then the other thing is too, you can have an a now when you run a video ads, you can have a whole another set of data that you can take, extract, and retarget. Yeah. Like if people watch 50% of that video, now you can take 50% of those people who watch 50% of your video, and you can do whatever you want. You can retarget them, you can create look-alikes from them, all different types of stuff. >> really crazy and ninja hacky. >> Yeah. What's cool I've learned is because Facebook wants people to stay on platform, when your ads just look like other content, >> Mhm. it's uh it's rewarding. Like >> Definitely. >> It's almost like we I don't know we didn't talk about like polished ads. Like they're they're like this crispy. I think it's worth testing cuz it could be a pattern interrupt for some people if the shot is really dynamic and maybe the audio quality is like insane. Mhm. But big butt is they don't it shouldn't feel like if you're on stories and you're tapping, it should just feel like you showed up on somebody's stories that don't doesn't even follow you. >> Yeah. And then if you're scrolling, it should it should be fall in line with the the experience on platform, Facebook or Instagram. >> it to be native, essentially. >> Native, yeah. You want it to be native to the platform. You And the thing is you can have pattern interrupts, but still be native to the platform as well. Like we did ads recently where we were recording videos in the car with our iPhones. You know what Yeah. Question. Literally, you guys don't need all this Omar equipment, right? >> [laughter] >> I'm just saying like it's great, and honestly I want to get it, but you guys just don't need it. Like literally iPhone quality cameras are crushing right now. >> Literally. Um no, and and the thinking is is just from user experience. Like this is for everyone. This is even YouTube. That no one wants an unsatisfied experience on their platform. So kind of I hate to say it, but like fall in line and do what run the play the game that they're that they're literally telling us to play. Yeah, 100%. Sorry, I want to ask a uh ManyChat is now a partner with uh Facebook. Do you use it? Do you like it? What do you think of it? ManyChat's awesome. >> Yeah, for sure. >> Use it. Definitely. I use it, they use it. Yep. And then go to Rich and then go from go to richfromanywhere.com. >> [laughter] >> What's up, Lisa? Uh thank you so much for your generous time and knowledge here today. My question is, since I'll be running my first set of Facebook ads tomorrow, besides waiting 2 to 3 days to see which one is tracking the best, what are three or five other things that I should be mindful of as a complete Facebook ads newbie? Three or five, okay. So >> [laughter] >> That's a good question. So, as a newbie with Facebook ads, couple I'll I'll drop some again. I'll give them some tips. >> Well, I think context is important too first. Like, me personally, like what are you running ads to? Running ads to a webinar. And from that webinar, where am I going to give the offer for a $2,000 opportunity to work with me for a year. Perfect. Okay. So, three things. So, number one, um when running your ads, one thing you want to pay very close attention to is your click-through rate. Okay? You want your click-through rate to be we used to say 1%, but nowadays, I think it's closer to 1.5, Yeah, 1.5 to 2. Yeah, it's that's going to dictate like how effective the creative is doing. So, that's one thing. Monitor your click-through rate. Uh two, monitor your frequency as well. When you start running ads, over time, what you're going to notice is that your frequency number if it gets higher, what's happening is the ad is delivering to the same audience over and over again. So, if that's the case, you got to think about it like this. Okay, I'm running an ad and the same people are seeing it over and over again, but I'm not getting more leads. So, what that means is that your ad is experiencing ad fatigue. So, what do you do in that case? If your ad is experiencing ad fatigue, you want to change up the creatives that you're using um in order to see if you can get that frequency lower, right? So, that's another one. You want to give her a third tip? >> if if it were me, the three things would be click-through rate, like you said, 100% cost per lead, 100% um and uh and CPM would be another thing that I would look at as well. CPM stands for cost per thousand impression. Um it's basically it basically just means how much money is it costing me to get a thousand views on this ad. That's what it means. You want to keep those CPMs This number's been changing, but right now I'm like $30 or less, even $40 or less is in the range we're we're looking for. If you start to pay more than 40 bucks for your your cost per thousand impressions, that means that um you're just basically you're paying a lot of money to reach these people and we need to kind of identify why your why your ads are so expensive cuz that could um That Yeah, those are those would be the three things. >> kind of depends, too, with CPM because there's times where we run ads and our CPM is in the 50s, but >> that's why it's important to get coaching as well because we can really walk you through to see, okay, you might have a $55 $60 CPM, but if everything else stays in line, >> Right. it's all good, right? But what we're giving you right now, we're kind of like blanket numbers without diving in, looking at your funnel, looking at all these different things. >> That's good. And then as somebody who posts on YouTube uh and Lisa does, too, is like those those phrases or those words or those acronyms that they're not foreign. Right. Right. Exactly. Yeah. >> they just mean different things on different platforms. No, it's fine. On YouTube you get paid for every thousand views. >> Exactly. >> uh yeah, and then click-through rate is click-through rate, you know, based on the thumbnails and stuff like that. Good stuff. Thank you. Good question, Lisa. You're welcome. Samson, what's up? >> So, my question is is if I'm trying to get started on my own Facebook ads cuz I saw from Jeremy's question, uh you know, you said to just start for yourself and then get to a point you can hire. Where should I start in terms of uh Facebook ads? Yeah, same same place man. I mean again it depends on your overall goal. It depends on your budget and all that kind of stuff. Like if you want to hire somebody right out of the gate. That's great. But if you're not there yet, definitely learn how to do it yourself. The first step is always educating yourself the right way the first from the jump like we said. Now if you're running ads to a Christian clothing company, are you on Shopify? Yeah, yeah. Okay, cool. So the first the first four years of our coaching program, we work with nothing but e-commerce businesses. Nothing literally almost like probably 90% clothing companies on Shopify. So we know a lot about that world. The biggest things are going to be obviously creative is going to be very very important. Um What tends to work well for clothing companies are image image ads can work carousel ads work really really well for e-commerce. So carousels are like multiple images that you can slide through. And and each image directly links to a product page, right? I'm giving all the game right now. >> Go go go go keep going keep going. >> Okay, so that that's the that's a carousel ad. Also videos work well specifically fit videos. Work really really good and if you know what a fit video is it's basically them trying on the shirt like hey this is stretchy and and they can cuz again when you're doing >> Right that's my tank top right now Tik Tok. I got the Tik Tok tank top. Bro you don't want to wear a tank top like this. You want to wear a tank top like this where it's like not underneath you got to go like but that's exactly what it is though because you you're you're leading with specific pain points that people relate to when it comes to wearing clothes. >> And and again you're giving so much context by all these little movements that you're doing they're picking up on visual things and and you're you're visually handling handling objections, right? >> [clears throat] >> So that was good. >> Yeah. And so, that so fit videos and then last tip I'll give for you, do not send people to a home page. Send them directly to the product page. Um Got you. That's a huge mistake people make. Yeah, let me send them to the home page and put more hurdles in front of them. >> Dang. Don't do it. >> terrible idea. Don't do it. >> Yeah, start I'll start with that. Yeah. >> Dang. Yeah, go ahead. I was going to give them one more thing. >> [laughter] >> One more. Um on the landing page, on your on your product page, make sure you have some sort of a bundle. That's what I was going to say. Um there's an app called frequently bought together on Shopify that you can use to bundle your offers together. Um also Zipify is another good one where you can essentially get more purchases after someone has ordered. And the cool thing about Zipify, it doesn't interrupt the buying process. So, with an e-commerce store, when someone buys a product, a lot of times you'll add to cart and then it'll say, "Wait, add this to your cart as well." But that messes up the whole flow. >> Yeah, messes up the whole flow, messes up the buying process. With Zipify, it's cool cuz they let you purchase, then they hit you with the pop-up. "Hey, add this to your order as well." But it saves the credit card information, so they click a button and it adds it. So, they don't have to re-enter. >> I have been on Maul Ben. I bought a like a shirt on Maul and then it was like, "Do you want to buy this marker?" Yes. And it's like Okay. And it's like, "No. What about this?" Yeah. >> [laughter] >> Yeah. And then I would Yeah. But it wasn't like a it wasn't intrusive. It was it was at the checkout at the bottom and it was just very easy and I was like, "This is sneaky." >> Yeah, but Zipify is good. It's a That's cool. >> It's post It's a post purchase upsell. Which are, you know, those are really good because it doesn't get in the way and you can set up all these flows, too. >> Yeah, this is good cuz I think there's so much to learn about sales by learning how you buy and and having self-awareness. When you buy something, just think think think, "How did they get me?" Like, "Here I am taking out my credit card." And like, you know, there's this hat brand called Augie or Aug 11 and they have like the like they have like a Jesus is Lord hat that looks like a Ford logo and uh Mm. and then like that ad was really good. And then so I'm like, "Dude, this hat alone is cool. It kind of like matches my vibe, whatever." So I go and buy I'm so glad it was at the top when I got to the product page. It wasn't like, "Oh no, I take that back." It wasn't at the top. And it made me scroll through >> have to work. >> I had I had to work a little bit and but I was but I knew I really wanted that hat and I got to see all that they had to offer. Anyway, they bundled it up. I I was just I ended up with 120 bucks out the door from an ad. 120 bucks. Didn't plan on buying a hat and I'm not even a big like respond to ads guy in that regard, but >> time to ever upsell people is when they just bought, right? Because they're already in buying mode. Um that's literally the reason why they put >> bought this shirt that said what the hat said. >> [laughter] >> That's it. That's it. But that's all it took. That's literally why they put candy bars and chips and magazines by the by the aisle when you're checking out at the grocery store. Like these again, like I think what you said is it's psychology and it's also looking at everything from a from a lens of a producer not a consumer. When you start looking at it from the lens of a producer and a business owner, you will start to see so many hacks uh so many tricks and things that are happening all around you, but if you're walking around blindfolded, then it's just happening to you. >> Yep. Right? Um so that's a that's a great question, bro. Hopefully that was helpful, man. Man, you guys gave a lot of game. Thank y'all so much, man. I'm going to apply this tonight. >> [laughter] >> Appreciate you, bro. >> Absolutely, man. All right. All right, check out the link in the description. Thanks for coming back on, y'all. Like this is unreal. Thanks. Bro, we be going multiple hours. >> in, man. We be going in. I mean, but when we say like was is this the the greatest conversation within the within 6 months time because like time will up and we'll need to update and what you know. I believe so. I don't I don't see why somebody at this point wouldn't want to just start freaking running ads. And watch this again. And oh, you have to. Because there's you probably some things that you maybe thought you got. >> Yeah. But No, and most people take the action and then come back and watch it and then you'll you'll you get to get more out of it. Dude, fire. Appreciate y'all. Check out the link in the description and we'll catch y'all.
